U. S. Charg[illegible] Conspiracy To Fix Steel, Iron Prices

FTC's Complaint Points to July Jump as Proof Of Manipulation

By Courtenay Moore
United Press Staff Writer

The Government fired a broadside against high prices last night by charging the huge iron and steel industry with illegally conspiring to fix and maintain prices.

A Federal Trade Commission complaint against the American Iron and Steel Institute and its 100-odd members charged that they had destroyed competition and penalized steel consumers by fixing identical prices.

It contended that the industry's pricing system has prohibited members from reducing prices.

Names 26 Corporations

The Iron and Steel Institute represents virtually all of the steel industry, which the FTC described as the "basic industry of the Nation." In addition to the institute and its members, the complaint specifically named 26 corporations, representing 80 per cent of the Nation's steel ingot producing capacity.

The Government pointed to the steel price rise in July as proof that these producers controlled and manipulated the market through the institute.

It said that "producer-respondents collectively supported that increase through the officers of the institute." Producers themselves, it said, estimated the increase at "hundreds of millions of dollars."

First Concrete Act

The commission's action was the first concrete step taken by the Administration in its drive to force prices down. The complaint, however, may not have any immediate effect, if long litigation results.

The Justice Department, which has begun an investigation to determine whether there is any conspiracy to maintain or raise prices, is not directly involved in the FTC action. The FTC Act does not provide as harsh penalties as the Sherman Antitrust Act which is enforced by the Justice Department.

It was learned, meanwhile, that FTC has completed a preliminary report on the general price situation which was sent to the White House and returned for recommendations. The report is understood to propose action against some price-fixing practices which, although they are not outright violations, come very close to it.

The commission charged that the steel producers had violated the Federal Trade Commission Act, which forbids unfair methods of competition. It does not define these "methods" but several court decisions have held that price-fixing is one of them.

The commission set September 19 as a hearing date on the charges, and gave the industry 20

Bilbo's Sickness Is Serious Now, Hospital Reports

New Orleans, Aug. 17 (AP).—Attending physicians at Foundation Hospital reported that Senator Theodore G. Bilbo (D., Miss.), a patient there for about the past 10 days, became "seriously ill" this afternoon.

A hospital report said that pulmonary embolism (a blood clot in the lungs) had developed.

Bilbo had entered the hospital for treatment of a cancerous condition of the mouth but other ailments have developed. The new ailments have taken precedence over the cancerous condition.

Bilbo was placed on the serious list for the first time today. Authorities emphasized, however, that the diagnosis was not final. They were continuing their examination.

Hospital authorities said that Bilbo's condition was not at the moment considered dangerous.

[illegible] Is Down But Humidity Up

Washington sweltered through most of yesterday while the weatherman complacently announced the heat wave was over.

The joker in the weather statistics was that while the temperature rose "only" to 87, the humidity reached a peak of 91.

The 87-degree temperature was 6 degrees below the 93 registered on Saturday, and marked the first time in five days the high had fallen below the 90s.

The break was aided by a mass of cool air moving down from the New England States. Washington caught the fringe of the air mass as it moved out toward the Atlantic.

Fortunately, when the temperature was up yesterday, the humidity was down.

The temperature top of 87 was recorded at 3:50 p. m. with a 75-degree low at 2:20 a. m. The "above average" humidity of 91 came at the same time, 2:20 a. m. This dropped to 64 when the mercury rose to 87, providing some relief all around.

Cooler, cloudy and humid weather, with the mercury in the lower 80s, is forecast for today and tomorrow. But—rising temperatures are expected on Wednesday as a Midwestern hot spell travels East.

Temperature ranging from 95 to 100 in the Midwest yesterday, coupled with continued lack of rain, were expected to do more damage to the already seared cornbelt area crops.

According to the United Press, some crop experts said a soaking rain could still give the Nation a good 1947 corn crop.

Cooperatives In Greenbelt Facing Probe

House Group Begins Hearing Charges of 'Monopoly' Friday

Charges that consumers cooperatives in Greenbelt, Md., enjoy a "complete monopoly" will be probed by a House Small Business Subcommittee beginning next Friday.

Announcement of the investigation brought an immediate charge from Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., which operates the cooperatives in the New Deal public housing project, that the committee is prejudging the situation.

The investigation, first revealed on Saturday, will be expanded into a Nation-wide probe of the whole consumer cooperative movement. Representative Walter C. Ploeser (R., Mo.), chairman of the full committee, declared.

Tax-Exempt Privileges Involved

Purpose of the survey, he said, is to "ascertain whether, and to what extent, tax-exempt privileges of cooperatives are harmful to free competitive enterprise."

Asserting that Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., which runs some 15 business units in the community of 8000, enjoys a "complete monopoly," Representative Ploeser declared:

"Because of this . . . private business has been effectively prevented from entering into the community and the committee has received complaints about the existence of this monopoly and other phases of this cooperative movement . . ."

Greenbelt Consumer Services charged that the committee is reaching "adverse conclusions even before the investigation has started."

Have Nothing to Fear

"We have nothing to fear from an impartial investigation," a spokesman for the cooperatives said, "for we believe our record of service to the community is clear . . . but the assumptions made in the release indicate anything but an impartial study."

GCS contended it "does not have the exclusive contract for business in Greenbelt," as charged by the committee. "Other free enterprise can come to Greenbelt if it wants to," GCS added.

At first, the cooperative statement said, the Government tried

U. S. Charges Hungarian Vote Control

State Department To Seek Premier's Aid in Preventing Electoral Abuses

By the United Press

The United States yesterday bluntly charged the Hungarian government with resorting to "flimsy and illegal pretexts" to exclude non-Communist voters from the coming national elections.

The State Department said the obvious aim of the Communist-dominated Hungarian government is to assure control of the new legislature "regardless of the outcome of the balloting." The elections are scheduled for August 31.

Selden Chapin, American minister to Hungary, was instructed to seek an interview with Hungarian Prime Minister Legos Dinnyes. He is "t ourge him to take all necessary steps on behalf of his government to correct the prevailing electoral abuses."

Charges Held Grotesque

"The charges on which potential voters have lost their suffrage rights border on the grotesque," the Department said. It cited Jews accused of being former Nazis, old women of being prostitutes and factory workers "of belonging to the former landed nobility."

In addition, the department continued, "Thousands of persons have arbitrarily been classified as mentally deranged."

Reports based on the non-Communist Hungarian press indicate that 20 per cent of the electorate—or about one million Hungarians—have already lost their voting rights, the department said. In some districts, the exclusions have reached 70 per cent, it added.

The department said that American interests in the elections is based on the Hungarian peace treaty. That document guarantees all Hungarian citizens "the enjoyment of human rights and the fundamental freedoms, including freedom of political opinion," it explained.

Restrictions Criticized

The United States previously has sharply criticized the Hungarian government for its efforts to suppress opposition parties and for its restrictions on civil liberties.

It contended in its statement today that the reasons given for disfranchising non-Communist voters were "grotesque."

"Thousands of persons have arbitrarily been classified as mentally deranged . . . the Communist arrangement of supervising the lists of candidates prepared by other political parties, obtained through pressure, is obviously intended to assure the Communist Party and its collaborators control of the new legislature regardless of the outcome of the balloting."

United States interest in the elections is prompted by the desire "that freedoms guaranteed by the treaty of peace with Hungary" are

Russians Grant Political Amnesty To 'Little Nazis'

Berlin, Aug. 17 (AP).—In a proclamation which admitted that some former active Nazis are still holding public offices in Soviet-occupied territory, the Russians today granted a political amnesty to the thousands of "Little Nazis" in their zone of Germany.

The proclamation, issued by Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russian military governor, granted the right to vote and to hold office to all Germans in the Russian zone who had formerly been nominal members of the Nazi party and who "have not committed crimes against the peace and security of the peoples of Germany or other nations."

At the same time, Sokolovsky ordered the German administration to remove active Nazis and militarists who still hold public offices or responsible positions in private enterprises.

Way Paved for Unity

Argentina Reported Giving Up Veto Demand in Defense Plan

By R. H. Shackford

Petropolis, Brazil, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Argentina will abandon its demand for veto power over collective action against aggressors and accept the United States proposal that all American republics must act on the basis of a two-thirds vote, well-informed diplomatic sources predicted tonight.

Argentina's attitude is expected to be determined by the overwhelmingly favorably response of other American republics to the no-neutrality proposal announced Friday, the day the conference opened, by Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Marshall asked that all signatories to the proposed new Inter-American defense treaty be bound by a two-thirds vote on any kind of penalty—diplomatic, economic or military—except the actual provision of armed forces which might be prescribed.

What appeared to be a distinctly altered Argentina attitude has surprised many Latin American experts. Before Marshall made his proposal, it was considered very doubtful that Argentina would go along with any plan for collective action against aggressors unless it could retain the power of veto as regards its own position.

Now the prospects for unanimous agreement on the Marshall proposal and the defense treaty as a whole are considered excellent.

Prospective agreement on two-thirds voting procedure, and on the obligation to comply with any vote on aggression, practically cleans up the big issues pending here.

There is virtual agreement in almost all other problems.

The sole remaining touchy subject involves economic problems.

Cuba still insists upon writing into the defense treaty a provision for action against economic as well as military aggression. Other countries want to discuss basic economic problems and the possibility of United States aid. Marshall wants to postpone considering economic problems until the Inter-American Conference at Begota, Colombia, next January.

Asuncion Cut Off, Paraguay Rebels Claim

Morinigo Trapped With Cabinet Inside Capital, Radio Says

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The Paraguayan rebel radio claimed today the revolutionaries had virtually encircled Asuncion by land and river, trapping dictator-president Gen. Higinio Morinigo and his cabinet within the capital.

An early broadcast, heard in the Brazilian border town of Ponta Pora, said the rebels had seized control of the Paraguay River, both north and south of Asuncion, blocking traffic along the vital artery to Buenos Aires.

A later broadcast, picked up at Clorinda, Argentina, asserted the rebels had stormed Villeta and Angostura, 13 miles south of Asuncion, and several smaller towns after scattering light government resistance.

The rebels also claimed their troops had occupied the Paraguayan bank of the Pilcomaya River, which marks the border between Argentina and the Chaco and joins the Paraguay River just south of Asuncion.

Dispatches from Clorinda said the revolutionaries had captured the river port of Enramada, terminal point of barge service to Clorinda.

At Formosa, 80 miles southwest of Asuncion in Argentina, residents gathered on the Paraguay River bank to watch three barges evacuate 300 armed government troops from the port of Allerdi, under rebel fire.

There was no word from Asuncion itself on the state of communications.

Indonesians Favor Security Council Mediation First

By The Associated Press

The United States may drop its offer to serve as a go-between in ending the war between the Dutch and the Indonesians in view of the latter's apparent failure to accept this country's "good offices" without qualification.

From Batavia yesterday came word that the Indonesia Republic had accepted the American offer to bring the two factions together for a private settlement, but had conditioned the action with an obvious invitation to the United Nations Security Council to take action first.

"Pending the decision of the Security Council," the Indonesian reply said, "the Republican government wishes to renew its pledge of confidence that within the power of the United States Government lies the possibility of finding a final solution of the Indonesian-Dutch dispute."

There was no official American statement on the Indonesian response. Diplomats pointed out, however, that the United States only a few hours earlier had given Indonesia a last-chance offer to make an unqualified, yes-or-no answer on the offer to bring Indonesian and Dutch leaders together for a peaceful settlement—outside the United Nations.

The Indonesian note said that since the republic originally applied to the U. N., it feels obligated "by the command of the U. N. and by any further steps that may

British Loan Talks Begin Here Today

Officials to Open Parleys on Steps To Keep Britain's Economy Off Rocks

By Austin C. Wehrwein
United Press Staff Writer

High British and American officials begin a series of conferences here today on stop-gap measures to keep Britain's economy off the rocks until the Marshall Plan gets under way.

The 12-member British delegation, headed by Sir Wilfrid Eady of the British Exchequer, arrived here by plane at 3:10 p. m. yesterday. They begin negotiations at the Treasury today with an American group headed by Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman.

Britain will ask the United States to relax the terms of the $3,750,000,000 Anglo-American loan agreement, to help the Labor government conserve its fast-dwindling supply of American dollars.

The British delegation will get a "sympathetic hearing," a Cabinet source said. There is some controversy in high circles, however, as to how far the Administration can go in easing the terms of the loan agreement without congressional action.

Britain already has drawn down all but 850 million dollars of its American loan. British treasury officials say it will be exhausted by October, daspite the drastic restrictions the Labor government has clamped on food and luxury imports, unless the United States agrees to release Britain from two clauses of the loan agreement.

The clauses are:

1. The "free convertibility" clause, which requires Britain to pass out its American dollars, on demand, to any country that wants to exchange its British currency (pounds sterling) for dollars. The official rate of exchange is $4.03 to the pound. Since Canada, Argentina, and other nations that sell to Britain have large supplies of pounds that they want to exchange for dollars, this clause in the loan agreement has caused a heavy drain on Britain's dollar supply since it went into effect on July 15. Britain wants it suspended.

2. The "non-discriminatory trade" clause, under which British agreed not to cut off any of its imports from the United States

Hope Given Up For 22 Miners; 82 Bodies Found

Whitehaven, England, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The death toll in Friday's explosion at the undersea William Coal Mine was officially fixed at 104 today when rescue workers gave up all hope of finding 22 missing men still alive after recovering the bodies of 82.

Throughout the night the rescuers pushed and hacked their way through barriers of rock and coal loosened by the Friday explosion and found 24 more blackened and twisted bodies. Some were killed by the explosion and others by gas and rock falls from overhead. Fifty-four of the bodies have been brought to the surface so far.

One of the three survivors brought out yesterday, James Weighman, found his luck was exceptionally good. Not only was his life spared in the mine blast, but he returned home to find he had won the daily double in Friday's horse races.

Attlee Cabinet Holds Meeting Unexpectedly

Prime Minister Comes In From Vacation to Session on Crisis

London, Aug. 17 (AP).—The British cabinet held an unexpected three-hour meeting tonight on the eve of vital dollar discussions in Washington.

Prime Minister Attlee and his leading ministers came to Downing Street by plane, train and cars from various sections of the country to participate, with Attlee ending a vacation in North Wales.

Whitehall sources declined to give details of the meeting, obviously held in connection with Britain's economis crisis. A communique said only:

"When Parliament adjourned on 14th August the Prime Minister asked a small group of ministers to remain in London to keep continuously under review the development of the economic situation.

"At the same time, arrangements were made to enable a larger number of ministers to meet from time to time throughout the holiday season. One of these larger meetings was held in London at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

"The Prime Minister presided and all members of cabinet who are not abroad attended. The minister of food (John Strachey, who is not one of the ministers who compose the cabinet) was also present."

After the ministers met, Cameron Cobbold, deputy governor of the Bank of England, left by plane for Washington to join in this week's discussions of a possible revision in the terms of the $3,750,000,000 American loan.

A crowd of about 500, largest since the war, gathered in Downing Street as the meeting progressed. Cries of "good old Ernie" were heard when foreign secretary Bevin stepped from his car. He was the only minister whose arrival caused any demonstration.

Early measures to save more food were among possible topics at the session. A new ration period opens tomorrow.

Volcano Toll Hits 9

Tokyo, Aug. 17 (AP).—The known death toll in Thursday's eruption of Mount Asama, 90 miles northwest of Tokyo, rose to nine today when searchers found four more bodies on the ash-strewn slopes, the Yyodo News Agency reported. Five other Japanese mountain climbers still were missing.

Three Saved, Five Bodies Recovered Off Honolulu

By Don Whitehead

Honolulu, Aug. 17 (AP).—Ambassador George C. Atcheson, jr., chief United States political adviser in the Japanese occupation, was missing and feared dead today in the midnight crash at sea of an Army plane which ran out of fuel only 70 miles west of Honolulu.

A number of men with Washington connections were among the eight crew members and five passengers reported aboard the B-17 en route from Tokyo to Washington.

Three men were rescued from the water some time after the accident and five bodies were recovered several hours later. Another body sank as it was sighted. Four persons — Atcheson among them—were still missing.

Survivors Listed

The survivors were listed as:

Col. Harvey P. Huglin, Fairfield, Iowa.

Capt. P. L. Ryder, (hometown unknown).

A Sergeant Holland of Texas.

The names of the missing or dead have not been announced officially. However, when the plane left Tokyo on August 15, the names of the passengers in addition to Atcheson were given as:

Col. Carl A. Russell, Richmond Heights, Mo., an assistant chief of staff, Allied Headquarters and Col. David Larr, Colonel Huglin and Navy Capt. Randolph B. Boyer, all of the joint strategic plan and operations group of General MacArthur's staff.

Survivors were reported by radio as saying it was "doubtful anyone else got out of the plane alive."

Pilot's Fate Unknown

The pilot was unofficially identified (in an International News Service dispatch from Pearl Harbor) as Capt. K. R. Still, United States Army Reserve. His fate was not known.

Intensive air and surface search continued, but by this afternoon airmen, eyeing the five-foot waves under squally, overcast skies, said there was faint hope that any more survivors would be found.

[The International News Service reported from Pearl Harbor that "Army authorities announced officially that Atcheson was dead."]

The Hawaiian Sea Frontier announced that all the recovered bodies were those of service personnel, as were the three rescued men.

[Captain Boyer, USN, who formerly lived at 1720 N. Edgewood st., Arlington, was assigned to Japan in April, a friend said at Washington last night. His wife and two young daughters were said to have sailed for Tokyo in July.

[Captain Boyer, 44, a native of Audubon, Minn., was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1927. He had served as a student aviator aboard the USS Nevada at various times and had eight years of submarine duty. He was awarded the Navy Cross for action against the Japanese off the Santa Cruz Islands in 1942.

[Colonel Larr, USA, a former Arlington resident, held the Distinguished Service Medal for extraordinary heroism in New Guinea. Colonel Larr, 46, was born at Sullivan, Ind., and was graduated from the United Military Academy in 1923. He served in the Middle East as a military observer in 1941, and later in Washington before being assigned to the Southwest Pacific area. He

Loyalty Check Starts Today As New Forms Go to Agencies

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

The President's Federal worker loyalty program gets under way today.

In a news release, the Civil Service Commission confirmed details of the program which were exclusively revealed in this column on Tuesday.

The commission officially announced that with a few minor exceptions all employes on the Federal payroll as of October 1 will be required to:

1. Be fingerprinted on a new form.

2. Fill out a new loyalty identification form.

The forms are to go to Federal agencies today and work will start immediately. The agencies will be required to send 15 per cent of the completed forms each month to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. This part of the program will be completed by March 31, 1948.

Agencies with fewer than 100 employes will be required to submit all the required forms by October 10.

Under the President's executive order which authorizes the loyalty investigations, the Civil Service Commission has these responsibilities:

To supply instructions to the agencies on conduct of the program;

To send the agencies FBI reports on inquiries about present employes and receive reports from the agencies on the actions taken;

To set up a 15-man part-time loyalty review board. This board will establish the principles and policies for carrying out the President's program. It will advise agencies on loyalty cases and loyalty problems. It will hear appeals from both accused employes and the agencies. In other words, this board is the key organization in the loyalty program.

The commission is required to make a check against the following sources for information concerning persons appointed to the Federal service after October 1:

Files of the FBI, Civil Service, military and naval intelligence, House Committee on Un-American Activities, local, State and city police and the records of any other Government investigative or intelligence agency. The commission may also check the applicant's school and college records, former employers and references.

When checks at these sources produce "derogatory" information, the Civil Service Commission will refer the cases at once to the FBI for full field investigations.

And finally, the commission will decide whether to rate the applicants eligible for Federal jobs after the FBI reports are reviewed.

Incidentally, the commission has

Tear Gas Just Ozone to Yeggs In $1500 Restaurant Robbery

Apparently protected by gas masks, thieves early yesterday braved a tear-gas protection device to crack a restaurant safe and escape with $1500 to $2000 in cash, plus a number of checks.

In a second robbery, thugs rolled away a 350-pound safe, containing $873, from a Wisconsin Avenue gas station.

The first theft was discovered by George Sachlis, owner of the Herald Square restaurant, 1303 H st. nw., when he opened the doors at 10 a. m. yesterday.

As he entered, tear-gas fumes blinded and choked him, "I realized then that someone had been tampering with the safe," he said.

Sachlis had closed the restaurant at 2 a. m. It was some time between then and 10 a. m. that the racksmen climbed a fire escape to the roof of the building, forced a small door, and made their way downstairs to the first floor.

The safe was opened by smashing the dial, and the yeggs made their escape through a rear door.

In the second robbery, thieves entered the Amoco gas station at 4900 Wisconsin ave. nw., Samuel Kaneff, proprietor, reported to police. The robbery took place between 9 a. m. Saturday and 4:30 a. m. yesterday.

A 2-foot-square safe, mounted on wheels and containing $873, was rolled away.

In another incident, police fired two shots at a man fleeing after robbing a sleeping woman of her wrist watch.

Battle of Jericho Lost

Prayers of Snake Cultists Fail to Crumble Jail Walls

Wise, Va., Aug. 17 (AP).—Southwest Virginia's Holiness Faith Healers fought the battle of Jericho today—and lost.

Shouting and praying for the walls of the Wise County jail to come tumbling down, a band of 100 cultists gathered here and called upon the Lord to deliver from jail two of their members charged with handling poisonous snakes in a public gathering.

Led by their sandy-haired, heavy-set minister Paul Dotson, the band began gathering shortly after 1 p. m. twanging guitars and banjos and singing. The meeting broke up shortly after 4 o'clock without the appearance of a snake.

Deputy H. R. Tieche said between 10 and 15 deputies and State troopers mingled with the singers with orders to "put them in jail" if they called on anything but heavenly assistance to pull down the walls of the prison.

The two women inside the jail are Mrs. Flora Nolan, 34-year-old brunette, and Mrs. Mary Lou Scott, a plump, 32-year-old blond, who have refused bond "because there is no place in the Bible that says anything about making bond or paying a fine."

Mrs. Nolan said they were waiting "for the Lord to open the doors of the jail."

The cultists left Wise later in the day to attend rites at Stone Creek, tagged by troopers and deputies with orders to kill all snakes that might appear during ceremonies and to arrest any member handling them.

Loyalty Check Starts Today As New Forms Go to Agencies

abandoned its plans to "spot check" new appointees. Instead, all new appointees will be checked, at least until Congress returns.

Civil Service had requested 16 million dollars to carry out its loyalty responsibilities. The Congress, however, gave it only $3,500,000. If a backlog piles up, the commission will seek additional funds from Congress.

The commission has dropped its plans to make full field investigations of applicants for so-called "sensitive" jobs—positions where the employe will be in a position to see confidential and secret documents. It's estimated that upwards of 60,000 new employes annually will be placed in "sensitive" jobs. The President proposed that the commission investigate thoroughly each applicant for a "sensitive" job, but the lack of funds prevents it.

The FBI will have these duties:

To search its fingerprint and subversive files for information on incumbent employes and to report its findings to Civil Service;

To make full field inquiries on those employes when it develops questionable information, and,

To make full investigations of new appointees when either it or Civil Service turns up derogatory information on them.

All Federal agencies will be required:

To submit to the FBI the fingerprint and identification forms on each of their employes;

To refer the FBI reports to their own loyalty boards for consideration. The agency boards are to make recommendations for disposal of the cases to the heads of the agencies. When cases are appealed to the Civil Service loyalty review board, the agency heads must decide the action to be taken after considering recommendations of the central board.

The many agencies also must check the names of all non-Civil Service employes against the same sources of information listed above, and they must order the FBI to make full investigations of those cases where questionable information is developed.

These employes will be exempted from the loyalty probes:

Persons not paid from Federal funds but who are in industries controlled and operated by the Government;

Persons on furlough through reductions in force, military leave, or any other reason, unless they return to active duty;

Those serving under contract, unless the contract shall specifically require it, and

Persons serving under temporary, seasonal or intermittent appointment not to exceed 90 days, provided they do not have access to confidential data.

The agencies will be required to submit one copy of each employe's fingerprints, but the identification form must be filled out in quadruplicate. The agency is to retain one identification form and send the other three to the FBI.

The FBI also has requested the agencies to give each employe a code number which is to be used on the forms. The code number not only would identify the employe but would also show the bureau and location of his employment.

Soviet Squeeze on Iranian Oil Is Believed to Be Tightening

Tehran, Aug. 17 (AP).—A Soviet squeeze for Iranian oil appeared to be tightening today as the Iranian Parliament (Majlis) accelerated its organization, presumably for early consideration of the 16-month-old Russian oil agreement.

Some diplomats predicted "decisive government action" within the next 48 hours.

An American Army officer returning from the northern provinces said 3000 Russian troops had massed south of the Caucasus and that "invasion jitters" were sweeping Tabriz and Meshed, the nation's second and third largest cities.

Hekmat Elected

The Iranian army staff was investigating reports that Russians were entering northern Iran by ones and twos, posing as deserters from the Red army.

Reza Hekmat, government party candidate and temporary president of Parliament, today was elected permanent president by 73 votes to 36 for Seyed Hassan Taquizadeh, former Ambassador to Britain and opposition leader. Hekmat, a friend of the powerful Qashqai tribal bloc, is credited with engineering tribal support for Premier Ahmed Qavam.

A cabinet member said it was "generally believed" that Qavam had demanded an "immediate settlement of organizational differences for a vote on the proposed Russian oil concessions "in order to prevent a threatened national emergency."

Under the tentative agreement reached April 4, 1946, while Soviet troops were still on Iranian soil, a Russian-Iranian oil company would be set up in which Russia would be the majority stockholder for the first 25 years of the 50-year term. Submission of the proposal to Parliament has been delayed, and reports of rising opposition by the deputies have been current during recent months.

Critic of MacArthur Resigns

Tokyo, Japan, Aug. 17 (U.P.)—William MacMahon Ball, the British Empire's representative on the Allied Control Council for Japan, announced his resignation today.

The reason was friction with Australian External (Foreign) Affairs Minister Herbert V. Evatt over Gen. Douglas MacArthur's occupation policies. Evatt apparently supported MacArthur, while Ball opposed him.

"I felt I could no longer work under Dr. Evatt," Ball said today. "I cannot elaborate further, but will make a complete report when I get home."

Ball was formerly head of the department of political science at Melbourne University. It was understood that he will be succeeded, at least temporarily, by Lieut. Gen. Horace C. H. Robertson, commander in chief of empire forces in Japan.

Ball said he had first told Evatt of his decision to resign after Evatt had his first talk with MacArthur on a visit to Japan early this month. At that time, a spokesman for MacArthur said he and Evatt were "in complete agreement" on the main points of the Japanese peace conference.

A dispatch from Canberra tonight said Evatt had praised MacArthur's direction of the occupation in a radio speech.

"The occupation is most successful," Evatt said. "Some critics try to deny MacArthur's achievements but most of them make the mistake of expecting too much of the military occupation in too short a time. His accomplishments are too great to be denied."

Lyons, France, Aug. 17 (U.P.)—The left-wing faction of Premier Paul Ramadier's Socialist Party today won 20 of the 31 seats on the party executive committee.

The left-wing group, led by Party Secretary Guy Mollett, is avowedly anti-Communist but favors more strict adherence to Marxist principles. It has criticized Ramadier's government for alleged deviation from party doctrine.

The resolutions committee of the Socialist congress convening here reported out only two of five motions submitted by the policy committee. One called for an indorsement of Ramadier, the other, presented by the Mollet group, for reorganization of the party.

Three motions favoring united action with the Communists were discarded.

unsuccessfully to get private business into Greenbelt. A liquor store's application was the "only significant attempt by private enterprise" made to enter the community, it related.

"The committee may feel this is an essential service, but the townspeople voted it down by 1106 to 309," the cooperative stated.

A committee charge that less than "2000 of the 8000 population at Greenbelt favor the cooperative movement" brought a retort from the cooperative to the effect that "about 4500 of the 8000 Greenbelters are children . . . that the cooperative has 2400 members, all of whom joined it voluntarily . . . and that over two thirds of Greenbelt's 1850 families belong to the cooperative."

Chinese Suspend Restrictions On Most Foreign Exchange

Shanghai, China, Aug. 17 (U.P.)—The Chinese government today announced new foreign exchange regulations under which the official rate of 12,000 Chinese dollars to $1 United States has been virtually abandoned for a fluctuating open market rate which on Saturday was 42,000 Chinese dollars to $1 United States.

The official rate of 12,000 to $1 will be enforced only to cover authorized imports of rice, coal, coke, fertilizer, wheat flour and cotton, the announcement said. All other imports, exports and remittances from abroad will be carried on under the fluctuating open exchange rate.

The announcement stressed that import licensing regulations still will be strictly enforced.

Nationalists Launch New Drive

Nanking, China, Aug. 17 (U.P.)—Chinese government troops under the personal orders of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek have launched a new three-pronged attack with air and armored support to clear Communist forces from the Tsinan-Tsingtao triangle, a semi-official spokesman said today.

The spokesman said government forces were advancing on all three fronts.

A highly placed military source said Chiang's personal direction was responsible for driving the Communists from central Shantung recently. Asked how Chiang could direct operations from Nanking, more than 300 miles south of the battlefront, the officer said "believe it or not, he simply did it."

Dominican Exile Denies Opposition Is Communist-Led

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 17 (U.P.)—Gen. Juan Rodriguez Garcia, a leader of Dominicans living here in exile, denied today that the opposition to Dominican President Rafael Leonidas Trujillo was Communist-affiliated.

Rodriguez in an open letter to Julio Ortega Frier, Dominican Ambassador to Washington, said it was untrue "that both Dominicans as well as foreigners cooperating with me in the oppositionist effort to restore democratic freedoms in our country . . . are nearly all of Communist affiliation."

Recent intensification of emigration from the Dominican Republic, Rodriguez said, "has given the impression to many persons—and especially to President Trujillo—that our movement is approaching a violent showdown."

General Rodriguez did not indicate whether he considered the impression correct. His letter said merely that "the Dominican people cannot ever pardon either you or those with whom you have aligned yourself, for attempting to distort before the world your real intentions . . . your attitude shall surely be judged by the people."

Truman Names Pinero To Caribbean Group

By The Associated Press

President Truman has appointed Jesus T. Pinero, governor of Puerto Rico, as a member of the United States section of the Caribbean Commission, the White House announced yesterday.

Pinero takes the place formerly held by Rexford Guy Tugwell, whom he succeeded as governor.

The Caribbean Commission includes members from the United States, Britain, France and The Netherlands. Its announced purpose is to "encourage and strengthen social and economic cooperation" among the four countries and their possessions and colonies in the Caribbean.

Slaying of Arab Ends Truce Hopes

Palestine Police Fear New Outbreak Against Jews at Close of Holidays

Jerusalem, Aug. 17 (AP).—Outbursts of violence in which one Arab was stabbed to death dashed the hopes today of moderate Jews and Arabs that the week-old warfare would subside in the Holy Land with the weekend religious holidays.

The fatal stabbing of an Arab in Tel Aviv's Yemenite quarter raised the week's total fatalities to 35, of whom 24 were Arabs. Five persons were wounded, two seriously, in today's clashes.

An official report said the police, fearing an outbreak against the Jews as an aftermath to the end of the Moslem feast of Ramadan, were cordoning most of the mosque areas in Palestine.

Patrols of Haganah, the underground army of the Jewish resistance movement, and of Nejada, the Arab army, were supplementing in an unofficial manner the regular police patrols.

An Arab spokesman said Arab officialdom was taking "a serious view, too," of the developments.

Refugees Stay on Ships

Paris, Aug. 17 (AP).—Beginning their third week of refusing to leave the British transports that brought them to France from Palestine, 4500 Jewish refugees prepared today "to stay aboard all winter."

Germans Fleeing Soviet Area Tax Capacity of U. S. Zone

Berlin, Aug. 17 (AP).—Germans illegally entering the American occupation zone from the Russian zone have become so numerous they are being returned without prosecution, the United States Military Government said today.

Many of those apprehended have claimed they were fleeing from labor conscription orders.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, said the American zone was already taxed to capacity by German refugees.

Thousands of Germans say they are deserting the Russian zone to escape conscription to work in Saxony's Soviet-operated uranium mines.

The U. S. Military Government's semi-monthly report said a continued increase in crimes resulted from strained economic and social conditions.

The report indicated an improved food situation, with the average consumer receiving a daily issue of 1380 against 1265 calories in the previous ration period. The official ration is 1500 calories.

Grain and flour imports for the first seven months of this year totaled 2,256,000 tons, which cost American and British taxpayers more than 250 million dollars.

The report said Ruhr coal production reached a daily average of 224,957 metric tons during July. The highest since the March peak of 233,200 tons.

Punjab, Bengal Are Divided

New Delhi, Aug. 17 (AP).—The boundaries dividing the strife-torn provinces of Bengal and the Punjab between the Dominion of India and Pakistan were announced today in reports revealing that both were drawn by one man—the British chairman of the boundary commissions, Sir Cyril Radcliffe.

The Indian members of neither the Bengal nor the Punjab commission were able to agree on the division of territory. Radcliffe, an eminent barrister, made all decisions.

His awards give the greater part of both provinces to Pakistan, the new Moslem state which originally claimed all of Bengal and the Punjab because those provinces had Moslem majorities.

Both India and Pakistan have agreed in advance to accept the decisions, but the splitting of the Punjab appeared unlikely to satisfy the militant Sikh minority of that area.

In Bengal, Calcutta, India's largest city and second in size in the British Commonwealth only to London, goes to the New India.

In the Punjab, Pakistan gets Lahore, provincial capital once known as "the Paris of India," but now desolate and ravaged by months of communal rioting. Amritsar, the holy city of the Sikhs only 35 miles northeast of Lahore, is to be in India, but another Sikh shrine and one of the most important, Nankana Sahib, where Guru Nanak, founder of the Sikh religion, was born, is far to the west and well inside Pakistan.

(In Lyon, France, Colonial Minister Marius Moutet said today that French India, with its population of 324,000 and 196 square miles on the east coast of the Indian peninsula, would become an establishment of five free cities within the French union.)

[The United Press said the first British troops to withdraw from India since that country became independent last Friday sailed today from Bombay for Liverpool aboard the troopship Georgic. The troops included RAF units and the Second Battalion of the Royal Norfolk Regiment, a historic British unit formed in 1685 during the Duke of Monmouth's rebellion.]

Atcheson, Now Missing at Sea, Ranks as Far Eastern Expert

By The Associated Press

George C. Atcheson, missing after an Army plane crashed into the sea off Honolulu, ranks as one of the Nation's foremost experts on Far Eastern affairs.

A veteran career diplomat, he was political adviser to General MacArthur with the rank of Ambassador. He was coming to Washington for preliminary talks on a Japanese peace treaty.

The State Department explained that Atcheson, as General MacArthur's political adviser, held the rank of Ambassador so that he could deal directly with the Japanese Emperor on political matters. With the lesser rank of Minister, it was pointed out, he would have to deal with the Japanese Foreign Minister.

He was aboard the American gunboat Panay when that vessel was bombed and sunk by the Japanese in China's Yangtse River in December, 1937.

When Patrick J. Hurley resigned as Ambassador to China in December, 1945, he sharply criticized Atcheson, saying he had gone contrary to the Ambassador. The State Department, however, upheld Atcheson's conduct.

The controversy involving Atcheson and Hurley grew out of the latter's charge, before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, that Atcheson had advocated furnishing lend-lease equipment to the Chinese Communists.

James F. Byrnes, then Secretary of State, defended Atcheson and said that Hurley had not furnished any evidence to support his complaints.

A native of Denver, Colo., where he was born in 1896, Atcheson is a veteran of State Department affairs in the Far East, where he has spent nearly all his diplomatic life.

Educated at Fremont High School in Oakland, Calif., and at the University of California, where he was graduated with an A. B. degree in 1919, he served in the Army in World War I.

He did newspaper and magazine work briefly, then was assigned as student interpreter in the legation at Peiping in 1920.

He has been in the Far East, principally China, almost continuously ever since, except for brief assignments in the State Department here.

Recalled to Washington in 1939, he became assistant chief of the Division of Far Eastern Affairs in 1941.

He represented the department on the exchange ship Drottningholm which returned Ambassador Joseph Grew and others from Tokyo after the outbreak of World War II, then served as counselor of embassy in Chungking through 1944.

Atcheson was back from that post for only a short time before he was assigned to MacArthur's headquarters.

Lie Blames Wars On Preparedness In Rotarian Article

Chicago, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Wars occur because people prepare for conflict rather than for peace, Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, said in an article published today.

War can be abolished forever, he said, by providing clothing, food and housing, instead of bombers, destroyers and rockets.

Writing in The Rotarian, magazine of Rotary International, Lie said in article entitled "Lasting Peace in Our Time" that people prepared for conflict rather than peace because they lack real conviction that peace can last. He urged bearing down on the living problems which he said only peace can solve.

was commissioned a colonel in 1942.]

It first was announced that seven bodies had been picked up, but a corrected list by the Navy showed only five. Two of these were retrieved by the Coast Guard cutter Hermes and transferred to the destroyer Rowan which found the others, accounting for the discrepancy.

The Hermes radioed that another body had been sighted but sank before it could be secured.

Fliers among the 50 or more planes participating in the search saw bits of aircraft wreckage and some speculated that the lost plane must have gone down quickly, possibly taking some bodies with it, even though the crash was a partly controlled "ditching" operation.

Vice Adm. John L. Hall, commanding the Hawaiian Sea Frontier and 14th Naval District and in charge of an intensive search, announced that Atcheson's body was not among those recovered. He said the War Department in Washington would get the first word if an when Atcheson was found.

Atcheson, in addition to being adviser to General MacArthur, served as chairman of the four-power advisory council for Japan, consisting of representatives of the United States, Russia, China and the British Commonwealth.

While no country now has normal diplomatic relations with conquered Japan, Atcheson held the rank and title of Ambassador, the same as the chief envoys from other powers in Japan. Under diplomatic protocol, only persons of this rank can talk directly to the head of a state, such as the Japanese Emperor.

The survivors were located by the Coast Guard cutter Hermes and transferred to the destroyer Rowan.

Capt. Roy Gano of San Diego, Calif., commanding the Rowan, radioed to the Hawaiian Sea Frontier that the survivors were Col. Huglin, Capt. Ryder and a Sergeant Holland, all of the Army.

He said Holland was in "fair" condition, suffering from a head injury, and that the two officers were in "good condition."

The Hermes and the Rowan together then picked up five bodies in the same area.

The Rowan, seven other destroyers, and a number of other surface craft and planes were continuing the search.

Lieut. Wilbur Yockey of Angola, Ind., pilot of one of the search planes, reported he sighted three men in a life raft and two floating face down nearby and dropped a boat to them.

"I dropped it from less than 1500 feet and it fell near the three men in the raft," he said when interviewed on his return here. "Two of them appeared injured.

"I flew down to 500 feet and could see two men face down in the water. I am certain they were dead."

Capt. F. F. Smiley, of Dayton, Ohio, navigator of another search plane, said he saw the lifeboat dropped, but that from his observation there appeared to be three figures in the water.

"The sea was whipped by squalls and showers," he said, "and it was hard to be positive for the whitecaps.

"None of the figures I saw moved toward the boat. I think they were all dead."

The disaster news developed swiftly and inexplicably late last night.

At 11:35 p. m. (4:35 a. m. Sunday, EST), the Hawaiian Sea Frontier received a radio message from the pilot of the lost plane, reporting he was running out of fuel and had cut off two engines in an effort to limp into Honolulu.

He explained that he probably would have to come down on the sea, as it would be safer to do so when he still had sufficient power to control the "ditching."

Then, 15 minutes later, at 11:50 p. m., a final message was received. It said:

"It's time for me to hit the water," and gave the position as 70 miles west of Honolulu and about 50 miles west of Barbers Point, western extremity of Oahu Island.

Immediately a widespread search was launched. Search planes blanketed the area and dropped countless flares but could sight nothing in the pitch darkness and the squally weather.

The position given by the crashed pilot indicated that he apparently had skipped Johnston island, 800 miles southwest of Honolulu and usually a refueling stop on the 2300-mile overwater leg from Kwajalein to Honolulu.

Sometimes Johnson is skipped by transports which have a light load—as in this case—and adequate fuel to continue direct to Honolulu.

Atcheson and his party left Tokyo Friday (Thursday U. S. time) en route to Washington for conferences.

The 51-year-old career diplomat had been MacArthur's political adviser since September, 1945, shortly after the Japanese surrender.

Atcheson's wife is in Tokyo. His father, Dr. George Atcheson is a prominent Denver physician. His mother is at present in Los Angeles.

Indonesians Boast Fires Are Frustrating Dutch

Batavia, Java, Aug. 17 (AP).—Both Dutch and Indonesian sources reported a flare-up in fighting today—the second anniversary of Indonesian independence — and President Soekarno and General Soedirman, commander of the Indonesian troops, called for continued fighting to insure Indonesian independence.

Soekarno boasted that his "scorched-earth" policy had frustrated Dutch intentions to reimpose "exploitation" in Indonesia. General Soedirman, making no mention of the U. N.'s ceace-fire order, told his troops "it is better for Indonesia to become a sea of flames rather than to be colonized again."

The Republicans reported fierce fighting southeast of Semarang in north central Java, where the Dutch earlier announced they had been forced to employ artillery against "heavy resistance." This Dutch communique was the first to concede "heavy resistance" in any area since the fighting began June 21.

Both sides suffered casualties in this and other clashes. Dutch losses yesterday were given as 3 killed and 12 wounded.

Dutch Split on Course

The Hague, Holland, Aug. 17 (U.P.). Informed quarters said tonight that Hubertus J. Van Mook, governor general of the East Indies, had caused a split in the Dutch cabinet by asking authority to continue and complete "police action" against the Indonesian Republic.

If the cabinet situation got much worse, these quarters said, it would be a crisis. Several members of the cabinet were said to be annoyed by the "inexpert and unjustified interference" of the United Nations Security Council in the dispute.

Treating Displaced Jews As Religious Group Scored

Treatment of Europe's displaced Jews as a religious group makes antagonism inevitable, a Presbyterian editor declared here yesterday.

Speaking at Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, Dr. Stewart M. Robinson, editor of the Presbyterian pointed out that public programs segregating any religious groups for special treatment only make for resentment and strife.

Dr. Robinson was one of 40 American clergymen who visited Europe last month under auspices of the War Department. He said presence on the continent of the group of leaders of all faiths had helped to bring Europe's Catholics, Jews, and Protestants together for the first time since the war.

Life's Ultimate Question

At Christ Episcopal Church in Alexandria, the Rev. B. B. Comer Lile said the ultimate question in life is Job's "If a man die, shall he live again?" "To this question," he said, "Our God answers enthusiastically in the affirmative."

"You can be certain of a man's God," he noted, "only when you see to whom or to what he turns in a time of despair or insecurity or when he comes face to face with the fact of death."

Dearest Possession Not Money

"Until a man discovers that the dearest possessions of life are beyond the realm of money, he has not started to live," declared Dr. J. Warren Hastings at National City Christian Church. "If loyalty could be bought with material things, the entire world would be acknowledging the United States as its friend, brother, and helper. But this is not the case."

Rev. Hastings

The Blessed Virgin Mary

At the Shrine of the Most Blessed Sacrament, 6001 Western rd., the Rev. E. Carl Lyon spoke on the feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary into Heaven.

Mary's triumph, he said, came when she died and was reunited with her son Jesus Christ in Heaven. "The Son placed his mother on a throne just a little bit below divinity itself," he said. "There she is this morning, as she shall be through all eternity, fired as a star illuminating both heaven and earth."

Education, Science Seen Failing

The Rev. Walter C. Gum, minister of Centenary Methodist Church, Richmond, Va., considered the question, "Can Christianity Save Our Civilization?" in his sermon at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 9th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw.

He said that we have looked to both education and science for help, but both have failed us.

"Christianity is saving our civilization," he said. "The Kingdom of God will come only when God has possession of the people who call themselves Christians."

Futility of Fighting

The Rev. H. Raymond Phelts, pastor of Ingram Memorial Congregational Church, 10th st. and Massachusetts ave. ne., said God laughs derisively when He sees the futility and foolishness of men on earth fighting to rule each other.

Rev. Phelts

He compared the situation today with the world in which the psalmist wrote of God's laughter over 3000 years ago. Today, he said, it is Rssia and her leaders on one side trying to line up people for her way of life, and the United States and her leaders trying to line up people for her way of life.

"God," he said, "must be sitting calmly in the heavens laughing. Wondering when people will learn that it is not power that shaped the world, but the Spirit of Christ."

1300 Women In Style Revolt To Hold Hem Line

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 17 (AP).—Thirteen hundred members of the Little Below the Knee Club, an organized revolt against new long skirts, will hold that hemline in the Southwest this winter.

Mrs. Warren J. Woodard, president, attractive 24-year-old Dallas housewife, founded the LBK three weeks ago because: "I didn't feel like throwing away my entire wardrobe and I thought a lot of other women might feel the same way."

Herman Philipson, owner of a Dallas dress shop, told the women: "I think you are right. I think the designers and dress industry are trying to get away with murder. The new styles render even your coats obsolete and with half the world begging for material to cover its naked back I can't see that there's any justification for these new drastic fashions."

First Aid Course to Start

Members of the Redskins, a Junior Police and Citizens Corps unit which meets weekly at Tabor Presbyterian Church, 2d and S sts. nw., will receive a 15-hour training course in first aid. The course will start Friday under the direction of Paul E. Hickerson, an American Red Cross instructor.

British Loan Talks Begin

simply because it could buy the same goods from another country without having to use dollars. The clause was intended to eliminate the prewar "empire preference" system under which Britain gave favored treatment to its colonies and other British Commonwealth nations in trade. British officials contended that the clause has worked out, in actual practice, to make Britain use its precious American dollars for essential foods and raw materials that otherwise could have been bought "within the empire" for pounds sterling, without any drain on the dollar supply.

Expected to go Further

Britain's request for relaxation of these clauses will be the principal business before the conference here this week. It is regarded as almost inevitable, however, that the talks will be broadened to take up the entire subject of Britain's economic crisis and possible measures for relieving it.

Among other things, the British are expected to ask the United States to shoulder a larger share of the financial burden of occupying the merged western zones of Germany. British officials consider the present arrangement, under which expenses of the German occupation are split 50-50, as a major drain on the dollar supply.

Dispatches from London last week indicated that the British delegation hopes to broaden the conferences to include almost any kind of stop-gap measure that might enable Britain to carry on until next spring, when the Marshall Plan for general European recovery is expected to be in operation.

American officials have conceded that the conferences probably will cover the entire scope of the British crisis, but they have emphasized that no further dollar grants to Britain can be made without congressional approval. It also was stressed, by American spokesmen, that any aid to Britain must be designed to fit in with the overall Marshall Plan.

World Crisis Predicted

Moscow, Aug. 17 (AP).—Ukrainian Pravda, organ of the Communist Party in the Ukraine, today predicted a world-wide economic crisis in the near future as a result of Great Britain's economic difficulties.

"It is abundantly clear," the newspaper said, "there is no way out of the most profound crisis of the English economy on the basis of the present Laborite governmental internal and external policies."

Excess of Exports To Europe in Year Tops Five Million

By the United Press

The United States last year sent Europe $5,340,000,000 more in goods and services than Europe sent here, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

"This tremendous surplus was compensated for through American gifts to Europe in the net amount of $2,130,000,000, American loans in the net amount of $2,710,000,000 and the liquidation of $530,000,000 of European gold and Dollar assets," the Department said.

The Department warned that eventually the United States exports will have to drop to a "level equal to our imports."

"The time is in sight, next year or earlier, when their present reserves, plus known U. S. commitments for the extension of credits or plans for unilateral transfers, will be exhausted," the Department said.

Fire Chief Meeting Draws 2000 to N. Y.

New York, Aug. 17 (INS).—Nearly 2000 fire department chiefs gathered in New York today for a three-day convention opening Tuesday.

The International Association of Fire Chiefs, which is sponsoring the seventy-fourth annual conference, said its members had come from the United States, Canada, the Philippine Republic and India.

U. S. Charges Steel Industry Illegally Acts to Rig Prices

days in which to file answers to the complaint. After the hearings, the FTC will issue a "cease and desist" order if the companies are found guilty. If the order is not obeyed, the commission can ask the courts to assess fines.

The Government charged, among other things, that the companies:

1. Set noncompetitive prices by a system which produces "matching" delivered price quotations to all purchasers "as though all mills were under one ownership and control." In general, all purchasers pay the same price for steel no matter where located or from whom it is bought.

2. Base their assessment of delivery charges on shipment by all-rail freight, although delivery frequently is made by truck or water carrier at lower rates. In addition, the FTC said, the cost of all-rail freight shipment sometimes is set higher than the actual cost.

3. Charge a steel purchaser a price based on where it would be used rather than where it actually was delivered.

4. Set up a "steel code" which requires producers to obtain permission from the institute for lowering a price below agreed levels.

Thus, the FTC said, the producers are "in a position to frustrate and destroy price competition among themselves and thereby to dominate and manipulate the markets in which their unorganized customers and consumers must buy such goods."

Pending Since 1924

The commission has taken action against the steel industry before, but a final decision still is pending in the courts.

In 1924, FTC filed a complaint against United States Steel and four subsidiaries for using the "Pittsburgh plus" basing point system. At that time, steel prices were based on the theory that all steel was shipped from Pittsburgh.

The commission issued a "cease and desist" order after two years of hearings. But an appeal was filed after the Federal Trade Act was amended in 1938 and it still is being considered by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The respondents specifically named in the complaint included the American Iron and Steel Institute, its directors, officers and members; United States Steel Corp. and eight subsidiaries; Bethlehem Steel Corp. and three subsidiaries; Republic Steel Corp. and two subsidiaries; Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. and one subsidiary; National Steel Corp. and two subsidiaries; Inland Steel Co. and one subsidiary; Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp.; American Rolling Mill Co., and Wheeling Steel Corp.

Institute Silent

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—The American Iron and Steel Institute said today it would have no immediate comment on the Federal Trade Commission's accusation that the steel industry had engaged in price fixing.

800-Pound Zoo Bear Shot Carrying Keepers

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 17 (AP).—A full-grown Russian brown bear named Hitler and his mate, Peggy, escaped from their grotton at the San Diego Zoo today and the 800-pound male beast was later killed outside the zoo grounds after charging keepers in a frenzy of terror and rage. The female was herded back into the grotto.

16 Die in Train Wreck

Lisbon, Aug. 17 (INS).—Sixteen persons were killed and 90 others were injured today when a broken axle on a crowded passenger coach caused derailment of a passenger freight train 40 miles northeast of Lisbon. All the dead and injured were Portuguese.

MORE PEOPLE ARE SMOKING CAMELS than ever before!

The "Choice of Experience"

Joan Hoagland, Ticket Agent

The experience of smoking—and comparing—many different brands during the wartime shortage taught millions the differences in cigarette quality

YOU KNOW what it was like during that wartime shortage. You had to smoke one brand one day . . . another brand the next. And whether you intended to or not, you compared. That's how so many people became real judges of cigarette quality.

That's how smokers everywhere discovered the full meaning of the phrase, "Camels suit my 'T-Zone' to a 'T' "... that's why now, when smokers can get any cigarette they want...Camels or any other brand . . . the demand for Camels is the greatest in the 34-year history of this famous brand.

Try Camels today. Let your own taste and throat . . . your "T-Zone". . . tell you why with millions of smokers Camels are the "choice of experience"!

Your "T-ZONE" will tell you...
T FOR TASTE...
T FOR THROAT...
That's your proving ground for any cigarette. See if Camels don't suit your "T-ZONE" to a "T"

U. S. Charges Hungary Uses Flimsy Pretexts to Affect Vote

not denied the Hungarian people, the Department said.

"Aside from the unwarranted interference of the minority Communist Party with the right of other parties to prepare freely their own lists of candidates, abuses of the Hungarian electoral law center in the wholesale disfranchisement of voters by the Communist controlled electoral organs on flimsy and illegal pretexts," the Department said.

"According to the non-Communist Hungarian press, exclusions from the electorate have now reached 70 per cent in some districts. Some estimates indicate that 20 per cent of the electorate, or roughly one million Hungarian citizens, have already been deprived of their right to vote."

London, Aug. 17 (AP).—British and American official representatives in Budapest have been instructed to urge Premier Lajos Dinnyes' intervention to see that all qualified citizens are permitted to vote in the general election August 31, the foreign office announced tonight.

An official statement said "disquieting reports" have reached London indicating that election committees have been excluding names of thousands of citizens—possibly a million in all—from voting lists "for no good reason," an official statement said.

Budapest, Aug. 17 (AP).—Zoltan Pfeiffer, leader of the new Hungarian Independence Party, declared in an interview today that the elections would not be free, but that he thought they would be held without incident — principally because there is "no reason for them to be otherwise."

He said the elections "are not free because the citizens are afraid to come to my meetings which I must hold in cellars. The elections are not free because I cannot print and circulate campaign material without the permission of the coalition (Communist, Social Democrats, Peasants and Smallholder) Parties.

"The elections are not free because 9 of our 26 main members have been denied the right to vote, on all ridiculous grounds."

Pfeiffer's party leadership is made up of 26 former members of Parliament, most of them outspoken men who had been expelled from the Smallholders Party for being "reactionaries" during an 18 months whittling down process in which the Communists attacked the Smallholders almost daily.

Police As Builders

Policemen detailed to build an addition to the cellblock in the basement of the Municipal Building have been ordered by Commissioner Young to return to their regular jobs as policemen, following protests from representatives of the Washington Building Trades Council. "If the union has no objection to it," the Commissioner stated, "we may begin the job again, letting policemen do it on their own time and arranging some sort of credit on their annual leave." It would appear, therefore, that Mr. Young does not object to using policemen as bricklayers, carpenters and plasterers. He has simply yielded to union pressure to put a stop to a highly irregular procedure that should be condemned because it is unfair to District residents who have a right to expect that the local guardians of law and order will perform the duties that they are paid to discharge.

Only in a dire emergency—and there is no evidence that delay in undertaking this particular construction job would create such an emergency—would it be justifiable to deplete the police force of the District by assigning its members to work on building jobs or any other jobs of an alien character. Commissioner Young's suggestion that such work might be done by the police in off-duty hours is scarcely less objectionable, not because the building trades unions protest this invasion of their field, but because such strenuous extra work could not fail to impair the efficiency of the police when on duty.

The impropriety of the present undertaking is best realized by considering what would happen if other departments of the District government were to detail their employes for work on projects that, in the opinion of some agency head, called for immediate attention. The result would be impairment of departmental efficiency and waste of public funds, to say nothing of the injustice to individual employes who might be put under pressure to take over new kinds of work. No doubt it is in the interest of District citizens to expedite work on cellblocks, as Inspector Thomas says. But the District has a much greater interest in keeping its police force working at the job of law enforcement and making Washington a safer place in which to live.

Independent NLRB

President Truman is reported to be disturbed by the attitude of some members of the Joint Congressional Committee to Study Labor Relations toward the NLRB. Senator Ball in particular is said to have intimated that the new Labor Board should look to the joint committee for advice in interpreting the Taft-Hartley Act. One report says that the committee summoned NLRB members and questioned them about data formulated by Robert N. Denham, general counsel, for the board's own use. Apparently this was sharply resented at the White House and led to a conference in which the President told board members that they ought not to truckle to any one.

One account has the President declaring that the board is responsible to him rather than to Congress, but that is perhaps an exaggeration. Of course, the NLRB is in a general way responsible to the President as head of the executive branch of the Government. He may remove members of the board "upon notice and hearing, for neglect of duty or malfeasance in office, but for no other cause." The board reports to both the President and Congress. What the statute unquestionably intends is that the board shall be independent of both the President and Congress in its day-to-day operations and interpretation of the law. Apparently this is the point to which the President gave chief emphasis in his advice to NLRB members.

It may be assumed, of course, that there will be a close relationship between the board and the special study committee set up by Congress. The whole point of creating that committee was to authorize continuous watchfulness as to how the Taft-Hartley Act is operating so that weaknesses, defects and unwise provisions may be corrected. Such surveillance will necessitate frequent discussions between the committee and the board. It is reasonable to assume that in this process the board members also will absorb useful information as to the purposes and intentions of the men who framed this measure and pressed it to enactment.

No harm can be done by such exchanges of information. But certainly it ought to be understood from the beginning that the board will make its own decisions. The rebuke that the Supreme Court handed to President Roosevelt when he tried to remove a member of the Federal Trade Commission because the latter resisted New Deal ideas ought to stand as a bulwark against interference with the judgment of the quasi-judicial agencies by either the White House or Congress.

Mr. Churchill's Blast

Winston Churchill, in his Saturday radio address, denounced the Labor government's plan for control of labor as a "degradation of the rights and status of the laboring man or woman"—an "altogether un-British conception of industrial conscription in peace time." What he neglected to mention is that this program for directing labor into essential industries is as distasteful to the Labor government as to its detractors. For that government came into power resolved to carry out its program of limited nationalization and to achieve its major objective of full employment without depriving workers of their right of free choice of occupations.

The president of the Board of Trade, addressing the House of Commons early in 1946, said: "No country in the world, so far as I know, has yet succeeded in carrying through a planned economy without compulsion of labor. Our objective is to carry through a planned economy without compulsion of labor. The general idea is that we should use a number of controls, in order to guide production into the necessary channels, according to the plan we have formulated." Well, the experiment has been tried and it has failed. So reluctantly the government has taken a faltering step along the road to totalitarian regimentation by imposing restrictions on the free flow of labor. To many this move seems to be too feeble rather than too repressive, since it does not entail compulsory transfer of workers from nonessential industries but simply provides that workers losing their jobs shall be directed into essential industries. Unless this program is buttressed by imposing severe restrictions on the use of materials and fuel by nonessential industries, the shift of labor will proceed but slowly and will be of little value as a means of effecting a change in the production pattern to meet the present crisis.

In our opinion Mr. Churchill has directed his fire against the wrong target by attacking the Labor government for belatedly recognizing that its system of planned enterprise is not consistent with a free mobile labor force. The Labor government is vulnerable to attack primarily because it launched an overambitious nationalization program, as well as costly building and internal improvements projects that entailed excessive drains on men and materials at a time when the nation's efforts should have been devoted to increasing its output of coal for direct and indirect export and pushing exports of manufactured products. Had the government concentrated on efforts to make the economy more self-sustaining, deferring all but the most imperative reforms, the domestic standard of living would undoubtedly be lower than it is today; but the country would be much farther along the road to emancipation from dependence on foreign loans; and the industrial distortions that have led to a limited kind of labor conscription might have been avoided.

We do not believe that the British people will heed Mr. Churchill's eloquent appeal to rely entirely on personal effort and free enterprise to solve their economic problems. They have gone too far in the direction of state socialism to stage a full retreat. Nor, on the other hand, do we believe that they will tamely permit themselves to be hurried along the road that leads to a totalitarian state in which the individual ceases to be a free agent. There is a third choice open to them: that is to plan for recovery by taking stock of their resources and determining the extent of the sacrifices required to regain economic independence. This is not entirely a production program, for the country is already producing more than it did in the last prewar year. But it is a program that calls for selective increases in the output of goods for export, thus necessitating reduction in the output of goods that would otherwise be produced for domestic use. A considerable measure of over-all control over productive processes in the form of rationing of industrial raw materials and capital would be required to effect the necessary shifts. But, given full cooperation by the country's workers, there need be no fear that the government's rather timid efforts to control labor will lead to complete and permanent regimentation or to open revolt that would likewise spell disaster.

The weakness of the Churchill address lies in his failure to suggest concrete means of dealing with Britain's economic problems. Instead he has tried to garner votes for the Conservatives by appeals to political prejudices and by arousing the fears of the people. In so doing he is impairing his reputation as a statesman whose first concern is for the welfare of his country instead of his party.

Voluntary Treatment

Commissioner J. Russell Young's apparent admission of error in handling the bill to permit voluntary admission of patients to St. Elizabeths Hospital offers at least a ray of hope for intelligent handling of this problem when Congress returns. The District Commissioners had turned thumbs down upon the bill because they feared it would be too costly. Apparently they visualized a general run on St. Elizabeths if treatment of patients with mental ailments should be made voluntary. That in itself seems to us absurd. People do not seek entrance to a hospital for the mentally sick unless there is very good reason for doing so. Moreover, the greatest service that such an institution can render is intelligent treatment as early as possible after the development of a mental illness while the chances of recovery of the patient are good. If the saving of money were the chief consideration in operating the hospital, there would be a strong argument for closing it up entirely.

We can see no reason why patients unable to pay for treatment of mental ailments should not be admitted to St. Elizabeths as readily as are tuberculosis patients at Glenn Dale. Likewise, it seems to us, they should be free to leave the hospital at their own discretion or the discretion of their families. Of course, it is necessary to commit to an institution insane persons who are a menace to the public. But that should not preclude the prompt and voluntary treatment of others suffering from disturbances of the mind. Common sense calls for an extension of voluntary treatment for such cases as a means of checking mental diseases in their early stages.

Power Over The Press

The sudden withdrawal of county advertising from the Providence Journal in neighboring Fairfax County is cause for some serious reflection on the freedom of the local press. The minutes of the meeting of the board of supervisors at which this action was taken indicate that the Journal was denied county advertising because its editor "has been criticizing the Board of Supervisors" and those officials considered his criticism to have been "very unfair." Specifically, it appears that the Journal's editor, Richard M. Smith, had opposed the renomination of Board Chairman C. Wallace Carper in the recent primary election and that Mr. Smith was also an unsuccessful candidate for commissioner of revenue. The action of the county board has all the earmarks, then, of meting out punishment to a newspaper for political opposition.

Many small weekly as well as daily papers are able to exist only because they draw advertising revenue from various units of local government. When this advertising is placed or withdrawn on a political basis, or in return for favors rendered to local officials, those officials hold an enormous power over the local press. Editors of small struggling weeklies may face the alternatives of truckling to the politicians in control or seeing their enterprise ruined. A sampling of small newspapers in many different parts of the country would probably disclose extensive subserviency resulting directly from the placement of local advertising.

We recognize, of course, that it is not a simple problem. Some newspapers are grossly unfair and partisan in their criticism. Others are so poorly managed and edited that they succumb to their own failings. Public officials have no obligation to keep alive malicious or irresponsible newspapers merely because they may have had public advertising in the past. What seems inexcusable is the sudden termination of such revenue because a newspaper may have subjected public officials to attack for their conduct. We think the Fairfax Board of Supervisors has raised a serious question as to whether local officials should continue to be entrusted with this power over the local press. Meanwhile this obvious effort to stifle criticism is likely to bring down upon the heads of these county fathers a more formidable avalanche of criticism than they experienced before.

Why Spivs?

Spivs, as we explained the other day, is the generic name applied to those young idlers and good-for-naughts, whose lack of communal zeal and distaste for manly labor makes them undesirable members of a great socialist commonwealth like Great Britain. So far so good; there are enough persons of this general description in capitalist countries like our own, to make us understand what Prime Minister Attlee has in mind when he says there is no room for Spivs in any country devoted to the official principle of all-for-one-and-one-for-all. But why does he call them Spivs? On this point a lively controversy is being waged in the letter columns of the British newspapers by the amateur etymologists who in that country are, it seems, almost as numerous as the Spivs themselves.

One school holds that it is merely an anagram for Vips, which is an agglutination of "very important persons," and is still used by the military to designate civilian visitors to whom, for reasons of expediency, special favors and attentions are to be shown and special protection to be given. According to this theory, which seems to reflect a certain malice, a Spiv is nothing more than a tinpot or small-time Vip. A more plausible theory is that Spiv is merely a kind of police shorthand for "suspected persons and itinerant vagrants." Others say that Spiv is merely an old racing term meaning a bookmaker's assistant; but if this is so it escaped the attention of Mr. Eric Partridge, who compiled the Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English, considered the standard authority on such matters.

A possibility which, as far as we know, has not been considered is that "Spiv" may be a variant of "Spiff," meaning an elegantly dressed person, or swell. "Spiff," however, is derived from "Spiffs," which is recognized by the Oxford English Dictionary as meaning the extra compensation allowed by drapers (dry goods merchants) to assistants, or clerks, who knew how to work off outmoded or otherwise undesirable textiles on the customers. In this connotation it is said to derive from "Spiff-and-Spack," a playful corruption of "Spick and Span," meaning absolutely new; hence, "spiffy," which, it seems, had originally the meaning of "in the very latest style."

The Lost Republic

PLATO AND DIONYSIUS: A DOUBLE BIOGRAPHY, translated by Joel Ames from the German of Ludwig Marcuse. (Knopf, $3.50.)

This work is described by its publisher as "fictionized biography," which, I take it, is a way of ruling out in advance any quibbles over fine points of scholarship. It belongs, then, to the same genus as the recent Public and Private Life of Socrates by the Viennese writer, Rene Kraus, and the still more recent Alexander of Macedon by Harold Lamb. It is, however, a more restrained and more thoughtful work than either of those. Mr. Marcuse is considerably more intent upon pointing his morals than in telling his story, and wisely refrains from too much in the way of imaginative conjecture. Mr. Kraus, I remember, made the Athens of Pericles seem almost indistinguishable from Washington in the heydey of the New Deal; but if Mr. Marcuse has made Syracuse under Dionysius I, the most celebrated tyrant of antiquity, sound very much like Germany under Hitler or Yugoslavia under Marshal Tito, he disarms us by admitting as much, and by reminding us that, "what any given eye construes as the past is always one or another version of the present."

Besides, it is his stated purpose to show us that the unity and efficiency of a brutal and conscienceless dictatorship and the volatility and intellectual confusion of a democracy present a recurrent historical dilemma to which no answer has ever been found, though many, of whom the first and greatest was Plato, have thought to find one. In other words human wisdom, 2290-odd years after Plato's death, has not yet discovered a formula whereby goodness and power can be equated, and whereby only they shall attain to power who will use it unselfishly for good. There are many of course who hold with Jefferson and Acton that none are ever wise and good enough to be trusted with more than a modicum of power and some who say with Burckhardt that power is an evil in itself; but Mr. Marcuse is evidently not among them. At any rate he thinks it important the quest should continue, lest humanity in despair accept the deadly principle that power is own justification. The true historical function of the great Utopia builders is to keep the desire alive; and the real significance of revolutions is in their testimony that it is alive Apart from this a revolution is nothing but the "substitution of a more up-to-date kind of inhumanity for an obsolete kind," and Mr. Marcuse considers it downright superstition to suppose that "the bourgeois pattern is in itself superior to the feudalistic pattern," or a socialist society intrinsically any better than a liberal one.

Thus Plato and Dionysius I represent the political poles of ideal justice and crude and cynical realism. They were almost exact contemporaries; doubtless they met and doubtless despised each other, precisely as Mr. Marcuse tells us. Of Dionysius' life, character, habits and methods a great deal is known since the great and powerful rarely lack for biographers. Dionysius has a strong generic resemblance to the many other ruthless adventurers who have found their opportunity in times of crisis. He was an obscure clerk who made his way to power by the usual route of demagogy, treachery and a private army. He maintained his power by the instant destruction of any who might murmur against it. In a series of successful wars he made himself master of all the Greek regions of Italy and Syracuse the foremost power of the Mediterranean world. The sad truth is that Syracuse thrived under his oppressions, surpassing every other Greek city in the luxury of its life and the grandeur of its temples. And in the end Dionysius confounded the ancient moralists by dying in his bed. The climate of his regime is best described in the anecdote about Philoxenus, who is, I believe, the one genuine hero among the whole tribe of literary critics. Dionysius, who, among other vanities, fancied himself as a poet, asked Philoxenus for an opinion of some verses. Philoxenus gave it, and on refusing to retract was sent forthwith to quarries. But concerning the outer life and private character of Plato there are no such illuminating details; what little is known of them is based upon his Epistles, the authenticity of which is still a matter of angry dispute among Hellenic scholars.

Yet it is certain at least that after the death of Dionysius, Plato in his old age returned to Syracuse and that he did so with some dream of creating there that just and perfect state, whose specifications he had drawn in such lucid detail. His friend and disciple, Dion, was the uncle and trusted counselor of Dionysius II, the tyrant's heir. Here at last was the opportunity to establish, without the agonies of political upheaval, the rule of the Philosopher-King. It is also certain that this heroic experiment ended in disaster for Dion, for the young Dionysius, and for Plato himself and that it delivered Syracuse to a new cycle of revolutionary turmoils. Many have attempted to read the reflection of the old philosopher's disenchantments into his last great treatise on The Laws. Anyway, it is this tragic episode which has served as the basis for Mr. Marcuse's moralizing.

Palestine Violence

I wish to express my gratification at the excellent article by Mr. Sumner Welles in The Washington Post of August 12 explaining the background of the recent outburst of terror in Palestine. Mr. Welles has performed a great service to the preservation of American ideals of justice and fair play in pointing out that while the murder of the two British sergeants was unjust, it was perpetrated by a long line of far more vicious acts of tyranny and inhumanity.

Americans who condemn the recent actions of the Irgun in Palestine should ask themselves what they would do under similar circumstances. What does one do when the body which holds the reins of law and authority in one's land continues, despite all pleas and protests, to violate justice? When it arrests and deports citizens without trial? When it searches without warrant? When it imposes the principle of community guilt for the misdeeds of individuals? When it tortures individual citizens and hangs for the crime of participating in a prison break—or even for the crime of being found near the scene of a crime?

What does one do when the body which is empowered to promote the peaceful development of the land refuses to allow land to be purchased for cultivation? When it refuses to allow water to be pumped to land already under cultivation? When it places barriers in the way of free trade with other countries? When it imposes heavy taxes on industrially important products, such as oil?

Does one continue to protest and to plead to deaf ears? Does one go to the United Nations with a protest when one has no voice with which to even make the plea? Does one present one's case to the International Court—when only members of the United Nations are entitled to request the consideration of the Court? Does one hope for clemency from other nations, when he knows that these other nations, in an atom world, are forced to concern themselves primarily with their own interests?

Is it any wonder, then, that the members of the Irgun conclude that only with force can they answer the enemy's fire and arouse the peoples of the world?

Police Abuse

I hope you will continue to be vocal about the scandalous treatment of ordinary citizens, Negro and white, by the Washington police force. I have heard story after story of such abuse, and a few months ago, my roommate, two house guests, several neighbors and I were witnesses to the following incident in my own apartment house.

A quiet little recluse of a woman who lives alone on our floor exploded her gas stove one Sunday evening. Apparently the gas had been slightly turned on when she lit a match. No damage was done, although I realized it might have started a fire. The Fire Department arrived, summoned by the woman herself, and at about the same time several policemen came up the stairs and marched in to her apartment.

About three minutes later, two big burly policemen emerged, dragging the small woman between them, down the stairs and out of the house. They glared at our speechless group of spectators and muttered something about the woman being drunk. Perhaps she was, but no one could have proved that fact in such a few minutes. We glanced in the open apartment door and saw the cane she always used, leaning against the wall, her false teeth sitting forlornly in a glass on a table, and the remains of her lonely meal on a small table by the couch. No signs of liquor were in evidence, and the janitor told us afterward that he had never removed empty liquor bottles from the trash at her door. Apparently she imbibes bottle and all!

A few days later, we saw a light under her door again, and passed her in the hall as she collected her mail, but to this day, none of us know where she was taken by the police or on what authority. I am bitterly ashamed that we spectators just stood there transfixed and let this happen, although we would probably have had our heads bashed in if we had dared to interfere.

Please continue to oppose such gestapo tactics in behalf of all of us. I trust you will keep the Julius Clegg story before the public until justice is done.

"DPs"

I read your August 14 editorial "DPs" and the letter you referred to in it. I personally wish to substantiate your article. The writer has spoken to many DPs in camps in Germany. The Jews wished to go to Palestine and the non-Jews who were unable and/or unwilling to return to their former countries were anxious to start life anew somewhere else. The Army did everything possible to encourage these people to go home and thousands did.

It is gratifying to see The Washington Post making an attempt to clear up this matter. This writer does not believe that keeping these people in camps is a solution to the problem. Neither is it desirable to force these people to return to places where formerly many of them were persecuted. This writer does not believe we can have peace in this world until and unless we give justice and freedom to all law-abiding minorities.

Pepper's Part

It was refreshing to read Katherine E. Byrns' very timely but all too short letter of August 14 about the Hughes investigation.

I attended all the hearings and was fully satisfied, as were many others, that most of the "failure" (so-called) of the committee to get at the real facts was caused by Senator Pepper's adroit interjection of leading questions, to throw Senator Ferguson off his stride, and the clever coaching of Hughes before each meeting. It was Senator Pepper who finally made it possible, by a legal trick, for Hughes to get in his prepared statement which had been properly denied him at the beginning of the investigation.

This statement, as he knew it would, took hours, and according to Hughes himself, was "only just begun," as he had "400 more pages" of what turned out to be almost entirely extraneous matter.

As a result, Senator Pepper made it impossible for the committee to get down to the real question involved, which was—how was the 40 million dollars of our money spent on a product which, two years after the war is over, is still unfinished.

This country should be very thankful that the Howard Hughes companies were never given any of the earlier contracts which did produce our air force and which waged the most successful war the world has ever seen.

Daylight Saving

The undersigned would like to know how the advocates of "daylight saving" feel about it now! Personally I could use another hour's sleep in the morning, especially since it never cools off enough to get any much before daylight! Neither can I see any great advantage in coming out of an air-conditioned building into the inferno in the middle of the afternoon! Will they ever wake up and see that this asinine piece of folly is not foisted on an unthinking and gullible public again?

Chest And Council

I contribute to the American Red Cross which is not a member of the Community Chest, but is a member of the Council of Social Agencies, which originally created the Chest to raise funds for private local agencies. While I am interested in the over-all welfare planning of Washington, I am, for certain personal reasons, not interested in the campaign structure of the Community Chest—although I do contribute to the Chest each year. I would refuse, however, to contribute to the Chest if it took over the council which was originally set up to be an independent planning body for public and private agencies.

Do you feel that the Board of Public Welfare, the Board of Recreation and Education would have the confidence in a certain campaign-thinking council that it has now in a real Community Planning Council? I do not think so. A true Community Planning Council would not tie itself to the Community Chest drive any more than it would tie itself to the American Red Cross campaign, or to a political campaign, even though a true community council would be interested in problems of government, labor and industry as well as in social work.

It has been said by Chest officials who are seeking to "gobble up" the council, that since the resignation of Mr. H. L. Willett as Chest director, there should be a broader executive type of job created to bring him back. It has been hinted that the Washington Chest's fund-raising job has been ceded to the Community Chest Federation.

This argument is fallacious, since according to the paper every day, residential unit leaders in Washington are still being organized to campaign in Washington, and business leaders in Washington are being organized to campaign in Washington, while the other six chests in the federation continue to run their own organizations.

The federation, we were promised, would not take over the functions of any of the six chests, but would respect the autonomy of each. Why, then, should it take over the Washington fund raising and not the Arlington, Alexandria and Montgomery fund raising? Is Washington to lose its autonomous chest simply to create a big executive job for a Washington chest official? We think the needs of Washington should not be subjugated to the selfish motives of the individuals who would submerge independent community planning for the sake of creating a campaign job for one or two individuals.

Let's keep a Washington chest and a Washington council. Arlington has both; Fairfax is creating a council separate from a chest, and nationally this is the trend. Public agencies have just as much if not a more important say in community councils. The Board of Public Welfare, for example, is responsible for a bigger job than the two or three chest family service agencies, but under a merged chest council, with board members from campaign contributors, the public bodies would be subjugated to the whims of chest campaign officials.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

France Has Chosen

IN THE PAST MONTHS, a very great event has been taking shape, inconspicuously yet decisively. If one can depend upon official Washington's best judgment, France has been making her choice at last. The makers of French policy are no longer seeking fruitlessly to "mediate," in the world-embracing contest between the western and Soviet systems. Instead, with courage France has chosen the west.

This may sound grandiloquent and vague. On the contrary, however, it actually promises the most solid progress in several vital directions. For example, the outline of a solution of the German problem (which had so long seemed insoluble) now seems to be emerging.

SUCH DEVELOPMENTS are not completed overnight, and there is still a marked difference between the British and Americans on the one hand and the French on the other, on the question of timing. At the Anglo-Franco-American Conference on the German level of industry, the British and Americans will press for immediate decisions permitting the reconstruction of the German economy on a moderately healthy basis. The British and American zones are by far the most populous, and contain the greatest concentration of German industry. Even a few months of delay will mean leaving Germany for another year what it is today—a vast, poison-breeding slum in the midst of Europe.

The French, on the other hand, are understood to wish to defer decisions until the November meeting of the foreign ministers in London. Then, being sensible men, their policy-makers anticipate another failure to agree as complete as the failure in Moscow. This, it is further understood, will give them, in the eyes of France and the world, a starting point from which they can set a new course. The French zone of Germany will then, if all goes well, be merged with the Anglo-American zone. And thus, in turn, the Ruhr problem, which is the heart of the German problem in France's eyes, will at last become soluble.

Long since, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault proposed management of the Ruhr by an international consortium. The Americans are now pressing the British to confide the Ruhr (which is of course in the British zone) to an inter-zonal directorate, and the international consortium will thus, automatically, come into being. Bidault has also pressed, very wisely, for integration of the Ruhr resources into a plan for the European economy. This will be accomplished within the framework of the Marshall Plan.

THIS IS, OF COURSE, looking very far into the future. There are quite obviously two possible ways in which the present trend can be reversed. The first is the least likely.

It is the possibility that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov may arrive at the November Conference with his briefcase bulging with really important concessions to the French viewpoint on Germany. This would be a remarkable about turn. In Moscow, Bidault was treated by the Soviet negotiators with contempt. Yet the Soviets have made about turns before, when in their view practical considerations demanded them. And there have been vague hints that such a reversal is actually being considered in the Kremlin.

The second possibility is that the representatives of this country might revert to their former myopic method of dealing with France's German interests.

To the French, this method has been utterly incomprehensible. To an American, familiar with the vagaries of our Government, nothing has been easier to understand. Until Secretary Marshall moved into the State Department, American policy was the sum of what was being done in a series of little semi-independent empires. One such was Germany. Those in control of American policy in Germany were brilliantly able men. It would be difficult to find a finer, more devoted, or more capable public servant than Gen. Lucius D. Clay. But General Clay, and the others directly concerned with Germany, were not concerned with anything else. Therefore, they quite naturally wished to enforce the simplest possible solutions of the German problem, as promptly as possible and without regard to anything else.

France's interests were opposed to these solutions, and friction was inevitable. The last manifestation of this sort of attempt to make policy for Germany alone occurred when Secretary Marshall forbade—only 24 hours before it was to have been made—the announcement of a rise in German level of industry. This record makes it all the more necessary that the French views should be sympathetically considered at the forthcoming London talks. If there is an honest meeting of minds, the French can surely be relied upon to approve those steps in Germany which it is economically essential to take at once.

THE WHOLE MATTER of course vastly transcends in importance the immediate future of Germany. For unless there is a firm agreement among the French, the British, and the United States on the German problem, the Marshall Plan cannot succeed. And the consequences of failure of the Marshall Plan are not pleasant to contemplate.

Washington Calling

Some Dog-Day Reflections

ALONG WITH MOST of the rest of the country, Washington is sizzling as the thermometer climbs, and with it the oppressive weight of the humidity. It is the season when wistful bureaucrats try to find a reason to visit some place high and cool and far away.

Congress is gone. Secretary of State Marshall is gone. The Brewster-Ferguson circus is only a fond memory. The city has a slightly deserted look, more or less as it did in the long-gone era when Washington was a sleepy town that all but shut down in the summer doldrums after Congress had departed.

ONE OFFICE of the Government is still here. President Truman is at his desk every morning, and he stays customarily until late afternoon.

In a sense he is a prisoner in Washington. Lots of invitations have come to him from private individuals who would like to have him as their guest. But for one reason or another, all these invitations have been ruled out. A President who goes vacationing must be careful of the political implications of that vacation.

Fortunately, the President can go on weekends to the hideout in Maryland that was created for President Roosevelt during the war and was called by him Shangri-la. It is comparatively cool and, even more important, it is secluded. The President can get off into the woods and have at least the illusion of being alone. For a President that is a rare luxury.

At the end of the month, Mr. and Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, will fly down to Rio de Janeiro. That will be a trip and a change. Whether it will be a vacation is questionable.

The three days the President spends in Rio will be jam-packed with the kind of public ceremonial that is most wearing. In the midst of the lavish hospitality to be showered on him and his family, the President will make an address of major importance in the foreign-policy field.

If all goes well, it will be a repetition of the Truman visit to Mexico City. That was one of the most successful episodes in Mr. Truman's two years in the White House. He appeared in the best possible light as a warm-hearted ambassador of good will and neighborliness. He was tactful, sympathetic, and always as identifiably Missourian and Middle-Western as corn on the cob. That is one of his sources of strength—his insistence on being himself. The trip to Mexico was capped by the return visit of President Miguel Aleman, which was equally successful.

PART OF THE BURDEN we put on our presidents is this business of public appearance and ceremony. In a publicity-conscious world, it is almost a full-time job in itself.

No other great nation makes one man fill two offices, each of them exacting beyond belief. In Great Britain, the King and Queen open art exhibits and confer honors on national heroes. Prime Minister Clement Attlee doesn't have to take time out from his handling of the current economic crisis to make ceremonial appearances. For the working head of the government in Britain that sort of thing is held down to a minimum.

In France they have a President who is largely a public greeter and public opener, and a Premier who does the hard work. In Canada and the other Dominions, a Governor General puts on the public show while the Prime Minister is the working head of the government.

Before 1900—well, say even before 1918—the Presidency in this country was difficult but not impossible. Even in the '20s, Calvin Coolidge managed to sidetrack some responsibility. It is a curious sensation to flip through the files of a newspaper of 20 years ago. A Nicaraguan revolution got the headlines, and President Coolidge was relaxing, with newsreel cameras, in the Black Hills.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN will get one break. Unless there is something urgent to call him back to Washington, he will return at least part way from Rio on the battleship Missouri. That will mean the nearest to a real vacation that a President can ever have. We put an awful penalty on a President, and the remarkable thing is that so many men go on wanting the job.

Backlog of Bills Threatens Republican Plans in Congress

By Jack Bell
Associated Press Staff Writer

A dozen left-over issues ranging from universal military training to an anti-poll-tax proposal threaten to upset Republican plans to devote a large part of the election-year Congress to so-called "social" legislation.

Republican leaders, including Senator Taft of Ohio, have made it plain they intend to concentrate as much as possible on education, health, housing, social security, veterans and minimum-wage measures in the session beginning next January.

The biggest stumbling block to early consideration of such legislation likely will be raised by the Marshall Plan to help Europe rebuild itself from the ravages of war. The Administration is expected to submit measures early in January to put that program into effect.

Training Bill Still There

Most veteran legislators say this proposal might easily generate a months' debate in the Senate.

The universal military training issue, a holdover from the session ended last month, will be on the House's doorstep soon after Congress convenes.

Legislation providing for compulsory military training for qualified youths 18 years old has been approved by a 20-to-0 vote of the Armed Services Committee. Even with this start, the bill may face tough sledding. It is a touchy subject for a year in which most Congressmen are seeking re-election.

The anti-poll-tax bill, passed by the House, is in the hands of the Senate where it certainly will inspire Southern delaying tactics if an attempt is made to bring it to action on the floor. In an election year, Republican leaders may be forced to try their hand at passing the bill, despite the filibuster threat.

Other Foreign Policy Issues

Besides the Marshall Plan, several other foreign policy issues will be knocking on Congress' door.

Senate and House committees are going abroad to study operations of the "Voice of America" short-wave broadcasts and other phases of the State Department's curtailed information program. The House has passed the Mundt bill to authorize a full-blown program and there will be pressing demands that the Senate act.

A bill to standardize Latin-American arms with those of the United States may have the impetus of a hemisphere defense agreement from the current Rio de Janeiro Conference. Nevertheless, it may provoke extended debate.

Extension of the reciprocal trade agreements program promises to produce a major controversy with many GOP members for drastic revisions.

Fight Likely on DP's

President Truman probably will renew his request for legislation to admit some of Europe's displaced persons, a proposal sure to stir up a storm.

Top among Republican "musts" may be a tax reduction measure to replace the twice-vetoed income-tax cut bill of last session. That might take time, too, if President Truman should decide again that the time is not ripe for any such reduction or if the measure should be broadened into a general tax revision bill.

Amendments to the Taft-Hartley Labor Law are certain to be presented, although the Republican leadership may head them off before they reach the floor debate stage. However, some GOP members who voted for the bill already have authored amendments.

Nominations Hanging

The Senate also must pass on new members of the National Labor Relations Board, given recess appointments when the Senate adjourned without acting on them. Those and other nominations seem likely to stir controversy in a year when Republicans will look with a particularly jaundiced eye on any of Mr. Truman's selections.

While all of these time-consuming matters are batted about, both houses must consider the annual appropriations bills, always time-consumers.

Even without the so-called "social" legislation, this adds up to several months' work when Congressmen would like to finish up in time for campaigning ahead of the November elections.

Output Hits New Dollar High, But Not in Physical Volume

The Commerce Department reported last night that the Nation's production—measured in terms of dollars — has reached a record level. But it blamed high prices for distorting the picture.

The department also sounded several economic storm warnings as Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) called for a special session of Congress to "correct inflation."

Despite the record dollar high, the department warned, physical volume actually has fallen below the wartime peak, although it is still far above prewar levels. The difference, it said, is in sharply increased prices.

The market value of goods and services produced in the second quarter of 1947 reached an annual rate of 226 billion dollars, which is four billion dollars above the previous high in the first quarter of 1945.

"To a considerable extent," it said, "higher prices account for the new dollar high."

Senator O'Mahoney, ranking Democrat on the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, said on the Ed Hart program over WINX, "Is Congress Doing Its Job?", that he did not believe the committee's prospective hearings on high prices would discover any new facts about inflation, but would "acquaint people with some facts."

He described as "phony" the argument that foreign relief was responsible for high prices, and denied that government support prices for agriculture were an influence. He charged the National Association of Manufacturers was "looking for a scapegoat" when it blamed wage increases for the inflationary spiral.

Though O'Mahoney gave the war as the primary cause for inflation, he declared Congress was "secondarily responsible because it abolished controls before we were ready for it."

The Commerce Department reported that investment in new construction fell from $10,500,000,000 in the first quarter of 1947 to $9,500,000,000 in the second. And, it said, inventory accumulation fell to a net increase of $1,500,000,000 from $4,500,000,000 in the last quarter of 1946.

Individual spending continued to climb, with personal income being spent at the rate of 159 billion dollars in the second quarter—compared to $156,800,000,000 in the first.

The department reported "moderate" wage and salary increases. It said exports in the second quarter were at an annual rate of $10,600,000,000, twice the annual rate of the last 1946 quarter. Some Government economists, however, fear the exports will drop off unless the economic recovery of Europe is hastened.

The department said personal savings declined from an annual rate of $12,600,000,000 in the fourth quarter of 1946 to 11 billion dollars in the second 1947 quarter.

Russian People Are Striving For Democracy, Pepper Says

By The Associated Press

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) said yesterday the Russians are striving for democracy and their government will not remain totalitarian.

"As they get higher standards of living they will demand more civil rights," the Senator said. "The people themselves will demand of their leaders that they have more liberties."

Thus, he added, the more the country's economy expands, "the more abundance they have, the more civil liberties they have, the more democracy they have—then they will appreciate democracy, and the more friendly toward us they will be."

Pepper spoke in an off-the-cuff radio interview over Station WEAM with Charles Parmer who asked "How is it that you can regard Russia with the indulgence that you seem to?"

The Russians, Pepper said, "are striving for what we have reached—democracy . . . I think in time they will have what we have."

Asked if we should make Russia more loans, Pepper replied yes, it should be treated like any other country—given loans (a) on the basis of need, (b) if used for peaceful purposes, (c) if there is a reasonable prospect of repayment, and (d) if it will help us.

23 States Recommend Aides For Local Rent Control Work

Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon reported yesterday that 23 State governors already have made recommendations of persons to assist the Government in the local administration of rent control.

Twenty-two other governors have advised the housing expediter that they are completing their list of recommendations and will submit them shortly, Creedon said. Recommendations also have been received from the governor of Puerto Rico.

The nominations so far received are for 248 of the advisory boards which are being set up for the 614 defense-rental areas under the 1947 Housing and Rent Act.

States from which nominations have been received were listed by Creedon as follows:

Alabama, California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Washington and Wyoming.

Rent advisory boards are empowered to make recommendations to the housing expediter on decontrols, the adequacy of area rent levels and the operation of local rent offices with particular reference to hardship cases.

Suggestions Save War Dept. Millions

By The Associated Press

The War Department estimated yesterday that suggestions by its employes for improved and more economical methods of operation have resulted in savings of $174,513,000 in the past four years.

The department had made awards totaling $1,856,167 to employes for 61,179 suggestions which were put into effect.

Filipinos Balk At Buying Goods Made in Japan

Manila, Aug. 17 (AP).—Public outcry against resuming trade with Japan had become so strong today that the Philippines government feared it might be unable to market cotton cloth recently bought from the late enemy, even though textiles are badly needed.

The Philippines Development Co. has tried vainly to cancel its order of some 8,400,000 yards of cloth arranged through occupation headquarters in Tokyo. The United States Credit Corp. refused, and part of the shipment is due in Manila later in the week.

Filipinos are confused and anxious about the United States' role in the rehabilitation of Japan. Many express belief the United States is favoring Japan and "forgetting" 'ts young ward and faithful ally.

Bureau Recommends Using Low-Grade Coal

By International News Service

The Interior Department yesterday recommended increased consumption of low-grade coal to displace growing shortages of high-quality anthracite and bituminous fuels. The recommendation was contained in the annual report of the Bureau of Mines.

The bureau urged greater economy and efficiency in governmental, industrial and domestic fuel-using operations and said it has successfully conducted studies of possible substitutes for high-grade coals, including lignite.

$6,735,000,000 U. S. Debt Refunded at Interest Saving

By The Associated Press

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder last night announced a refunding of $6,735,000,000 of the national debt, offering most of the new Government obligations at lower interest rates than those maturing.

A new offering of 1 per cent short-term notes will save the Treasury 17 million dollars in interest payments and is expected to disappoint investment interests that had hoped for a slight increase in interest rates.

Snyder also announced that the Treasury would offer late in September an issue of 2½ per cent bonds, dated October 1, the first since 1945. He did not disclose the amount of the issue.

This is an answer to a wide demand for long-term securities. They will be purchasable only by institutions holding savings, insurance and pension funds—that is, savings banks, savings and loan firms, insurance companies and the like—and by commercial banks that have savings deposits. The bonds may not be traded in the market.

By so limiting the sale, Treasury aides said, the Government will prevent the bonds from being added to the reserves of commercial banks that may use them to make additional loans, with inflationary effect.

The other offerings are:

On August 20, a 10-month issue of certificates bearing ⅞ per cent interest, in exchange for $2,341,000 in present certificates, which expire September 1, carrying the same interest.

Early in September, an issue of 12½-month notes at 1 per cent interest in exchange for the 1¼ per cent Treasury notes falling due September 15, amounting to $1,687,000,000, and for a 1½ per cent issue of $2,707,000,000 maturing on the same date.

The brief statement closed with announcement that the Treasury would continue to issue United States Savings Bonds, paying 2.9 per cent interest on amounts up to $3750 a year, and 2½ per cent interest on additional investments up to $100,000 a year.

It is the Treasury's intention, the Secretary added, to "supplement such issues by the offering of securities suitable primarily for institutional investment whenever the situation warrants such action."

Barracks Named For Gen. Betts

The late Brig. Gen. Edward C. Betts, Judge Advocate on General Eisenhower's staff throughout the war, has been honored by the naming of the military area of the Frankfurt Military Post in Germany, according to Army Headquarters, European Command.

The area, formerly unofficially called "Bolster Area," has been named "Betts Barracks." General Betts, whose home was at 1869 Wyoming ave. nw., received the Legion of Merit in 1944 for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services between April, 1942, and May, 1943.

After the war, General Betts continued as Judge Advocate under General McNarney. He died in Germany on May 6, 1946.

Bombs Wrecked Nazi A-Plant, Writer Says

London, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Allied bombers knocked out a German installation which had come within an ace of being the first chain-reacting nuclear fission plant in Europe, Professor W. Heisenberg, a German physicist, said today in the scientific magazine Nature.

Heisenberg, who is associated with the Max Planck Institute of Physics at Gottingen, Germany, revealed that Germany began working on atomic piles in the fall of 1941. All except the last, which was bombed out, were unsuccessful, he said.

Farm Population Down 3 Million Since 1940

By the United Press

The Nation's farm population declined by 2,996,911 persons between 1940 and 1947, and totaled 27,550,000 last January 1, the Census Bureau reported last night.

It attributed the decline largely to a wartime emigration of civilians from the farm and the fact that many discharged servicemen failed to return to their farm homes. The January 1 figure, however, represented a net gain of about 700,000 over the previous year.

A dynamic new approach to the Russian problem . . .

OPERATION MOSCOW

by Christopher Norborg

As former Chief of the Northern European Regional Section of UNRRA, Christopher Norborg combines his experience in daily contacts with Soviet Foreign policy with his background as a minister of the Norwegian Presbyterian Church and his work as associate professor of philosophy at the University of Minnesota. Dr. Norborg has written a completely different book on Soviet-American relations. "Operation Moscow" is a powerful, emotional, but clear-sighted study which deals with the Russian question on three fronts: The military, the political, and the philosophical and moral. Dr. Norborg believes that peace can be won. He sets the problems of the frustrated postwar world in a new perspective. For a clearer insight of our foremost problem include "Operation Moscow" in your list of "must read" books.

D. C. Man, 25, Drowns in Lake

A 25-year-old Washington man was drowned yesterday while swimming with a group of friends in Kingman's Lake.

The victim was Eugene N. Lockett, whose address was given as 600 block Freedman's ct. nw.

Included in the group of friends who tried unsuccessfully to bring Lockett to the surface were: Jesse Rouse, 28, of 1910 9th st. nw.; Robert Williamson, 27, of 1138 8th st. nw.; Andrew S. McCray, 31, whose address was not immediately obtained, and Jerry Smith, 21, of 421 4th st. nw.

The harbor police were still dragging the lake for Lockett's body at a late hour yesterday.

Guerillas Set Up Courts in 'Free Greece'

Athens, Aug. 17 (AP).—A guerilla broadcast said today people's courts were being created in the areas of Greece where Gen. Markos Vlfiades, guerilla chieftain, has announced establishment of a regime to rule until a "provisional democratic government" is formed.

The broadcast said the three-member people's courts will be under the direction of a people's commissar and will give authority to pass sentences up to five years. More serious crimes will fall under the jurisdiction of military courts.

The broadcast strengthened conviction of Greek government authorities that the guerillas were attempting to set up a "free Communist" state in the north.

Press dispatches in Athens newspapers reporting a continuing increase in guerilla activity, including the capture by a large guerilla assault force of Persoyianni, 12 miles northwest of Konitsa, and Kerasivo, 8 miles south of Persoyianni, near the Albanian border.

The correspondent for the conservative newspaper Kathimerina reported from Ionnina that the guerillas seized important heights around Kastania and Fourka, both within 3 miles of Kerasivo.

At Exochi, 3 miles from the Albanian border and 4 miles north of Konitsa, Greek government forces were reported to have clashed with guerillas.

UNESCO's U. S. Commission to Meet Sept. 11; Dean of G. W., 13 Others, Named Members

By The Associated Press

Milton S. Eisenhower, chairman of the United States national commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Culture Organization yesterday called a commission meeting for September 11-13 at Chicago.

The commission will discuss the reconstruction and rehabilitation of schools in war-devastated areas, exchange of students and teachers, and the Paris conference on a world-wide radio network.

Eisenhower also announced appointment of six new members. They are:

Gilmore D. Clarke, dean of architecture at Cornell University, representing the National Institute of Arts and Letters;

Henry Gratian Doyle, dean of Columbia College at George Washington University, representing the Modern Language Association of America;

Rees Hopkins Hughes, Pittsburgh, Kansas, educator, representing the American Association of School Administrators;

Harold C. Urey, atomic scientist of Chicago, Ill., representing the American Chemical Society;

William E. Wickenden, president of the Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland, Ohio, representing the Engineers' Joint Council;

Howard E. Wilson, associate director of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, representing the National Council for Social Studies.

Eisenhower also listed eight replacements in the commission's existing membership, together with the organizations which they will represent:

George Harold Edgell, director of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, Mass., American Association of Museums;

Herbert Emmerich, director of the Public Administration Clearing House of Chicago, Ill., American Committee for the International Union of Local Authorities;

Rayford Logan, head of Howard University's history department, American Teachers Association;

William W. Loomis, president of the Citizens Publishing Co., La Grange, Ill., National Editorial Association;

Rabbi William F. Rosenblum, Temple Israel, New York City, Synagogue Council of America;

Harlow Shapley, director of Harvard Observatory, Boston, American Association for the Advancement of Science;

Earle O. Shreve, vice president of General Electric Co., United States Chamber of Commerce, and Donald R. Young, executive director of the Social Science Research Council.

Korean Is Rescued After 24 Days on Raft

Shanghai, Aug. 17 (AP).—The UNRRA fishing vessel "Washington" radioed to Shanghai today that it had picked up a Korean on a raft who said he had been adrift for 24 days and was the only survivor of the Japanese ship Asia Maru.

He said his ship exploded while en route from Fusan, Korea, to a Russian destination which he did not know. He was found about 50 miles south of southernmost Korea.

World Federalists Meet in Montreux

Montreux, Switzerland, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The first International Congress of World Federalist opened today with welcoming addresses by provisional president Max Habicht and British Member of Parliament Henry Usborne.

Four hundred delegates from 20 countries, including the United States, but not Russia, gathered for a weeklong conference to establish an international clearing house for national world federation movements.

U. N. Council, Facing Serious Issues, Dubious of Vacation

Lake Success, Aug. 17 (AP).—The United Nations Security Council today virtually abandoned hopes of a summer vacation in the light of developments in Greece and Indonesia, two of the world's trouble spots under U. N. surveillance.

The Council had planned to speed through final debate on the Greek, Indonesian and Egyptian cases, vote on new members, and complete its annual report to the General Assembly—all this week—in a drive for a two-week holiday.

Surveying the situation today, Chairman Faris el Khoury of Syria, said:

"I have little hope that we can get through."

Reports of the Greek guerillas' setting up a separate government and dispatches telling of continued fighting in Indonesia pointed up the urgency in those two cases. A member of one delegation commented:

"The Council can't very well go off on a holiday and leave two shooting cases hanging in mid-air."

The Council apparently was headed into more Russian vetoes in its heavy schedule for the week. At least five vetoes were possible under previous firm declarations by the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, Andrei A. Gromyko.

Russia served notice that she would again blackball Ireland, Portugal and Trans-Jordan in the vote on admitting new members.

Gromyko also left little doubt that he would invoke the veto to kill new Australian and American proposals aimed at quelling disorders in the Balkans.

The Council scheduled only one meeting on the Egyptian case, where Cairo demands the immediate evacuation of all British troops and termination of British control over the Sudan.

Here comes Handsome!"

BREATHES there a man with soul so dead he doesn't relish a little open admiration from the sidewalk?

Can you name us a male, modest though he otherwise be, who fails to get a secret bang out of public appearances with a creation as gorgeous as this one?

Well, you need only take charge of this beauty for a while to see how much, much more it does for you than flatter your masculine ego.

Touch off the eager power in its eight big Fireball cylinders and see how your pulses start pounding.

Swing back the top with a touch on the handy control — run up the door windows as windscreens — and feel the spirit of adventure start welling up in your soul.

Head out where you can match this Buick's easy stride against the stretching miles. Route yourself where ruts and gravel can pit themselves in vain against the flawless gentleness of fluid, all-coil springing. Get the sweet feel of this light and easy wheel — sample the heft and size of this ever-steady traveler.

In truth, here's the sort of playmate a man can spend a lifetime seeking. Here's good friend, boon companion, lively, dependable, eager partner for any frolic or any traveling task.

So why delay longer the time when you can call one yours? Reach a decision now on your long-range planning — and see us about getting your order in.

We'll take it, with or without a car to trade, and make equal effort in either case to make your dreams come true at the earliest moment in our power.

One on the Aisle—

Vacation From What?

Mrs. Slewfoot Ponders Aloud

By Richard L. Coe

"YOU DON'T MEAN to tell me," said Mrs. Leonidas K. Slewfoot, "that you're going on a vacation. A vacation from what, may I ask?"

"Well, er, it's maybe not what you'd call a vacation, but I am going to stop being a guest of the management for three weeks. That means all the more room for you, Mrs. Slewfoot, and heaven knows YOU need all the room you can get."

Mrs. Slewfoot sighed and changed the subject. "Who," she asked, "was that lady I seen you with in the Neptune Room Friday night?"

"That was certainly a lady—even in her slacks. She was Estelle Winwood, who doesn't mind confessing she's been playing ladies of quality ever since your second marriage, Mrs. Slewfoot. Estelle had driven down from New York to start rehearsals for 'Ladies in Retirement' at Olney this week."

"Winwood REHEARSING 'Ladies in Retirement?' My dear child, SHE was in the New York original and that wasn't long enough ago for her to forget her lines."

"You forget, Mrs. Slewfoot, that she's played a lot of other things since, and that, furthermore, she'll be playing with some new people. As a matter of fact, Estelle—you note, Mrs. Slewfoot, how intimate I am with the lady—is just a teensy bit lazy. She was asked to play all sorts of other parts this summer, but she decided she'd just stick to one role so she wouldn't have to stuff her pate with a pack of lines she'd have to forget when she tramps the country in 'Lady Windermere's Fan,' which you'll see at the National in a few weeks."

"That reminds me," digressed Mrs. S. "Can you get me some tickets?"

"Sh!" I shhhhed her. "Bess Davis Schreiner, the Guild digger, may be listening. And you know how she insists on getting your subscriptions in her office at the National . . . Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons," I gasped.

She Envies Miss Winwood

"Well," Mrs. S. backtracked. "All I can say is that Winwood woman is a card. I saw her imitating all those actresses she knows. I'll bet she can upstage anybody. I remember when she played Cinder in black face with Ethel Barrymore in 'Scarlet Sister Mary.'"

"Don't remind her of it, Mrs. S. Estelle lives in the present. She said all she wants is a good, short part with top billing and lots of money. And that's what she gets, you know."

"Oh, dear," Mrs. S. sighed. "I do wish I'd gone on the stage instead of getting married. Tell me. What about all those young people I see coking-up in that F street druggery these days. They're acting mighty like theater people."

"They should. They're the ones who came through in all those tryouts that Gene Ford had for 'Going Native.'"

"Going Native"

"Oh, yes. I'v heard about that one. When does it open?"

"Thursday the 28th, Mrs. S. and I shall expect a full report from you when I get back. I'll want to know how Robert L. Friend makes out with his mental act, how all those beauty contest girls look in that Atlantic City number. One chap you should watch for, too, is John Garvey, who does a swell boogie woogie turn at the piano."

"You know I'm far too busy to write," said Mrs. S. "What's Leo Brady going to be doing all this time you're gone?"

"I'm glad you brought that up. Leo is on vacation from his classes in drama criticism at Catholic University and he'll be chugging around to the shows. Matter of fact, he's got some promising ones to see. He'll be going to 'The Bachelor and the Bobby-Soxer' at Keith's this week and from all I've heard, that one's worth money to see."

Movies in the Mountains

"Well, that's something you can do now. Do they have movies where you're going?"

"I'm going to Tennessee and I'm told they have movies there on Tuesday nights."

"That's sweet. And think of what you'll be missing at the National."

"Yes," I sighed ruefully. "The National will, er, miss me. I've been a regular roue there all during 'Oklahoma!' And I had the darndest time convincing somebody that 'The Red Mill' wasn't Communist propaganda. This man was in the Government and he said nobody was going to catch HIM at any RED mill."

"Oh, dear, what is the world coming to? Why, I remember Angus—that was my fourth husband, you remember—used to whistle all those lovely Victor Herbert tunes while pressing his kilts."

"Nanook" Prompts a Re-Make

"Speaking of kilts, Mrs. S., you'll probably see some in 'We Love a Lassie,' which opens at the National Labor Day night. It's a new comedy about Scotland, you know. And speaking of far-off places, don't forget to see 'Nanook of the North' tomorrow night in The Washington Post-Public Library series at the Interior. That one's lasted so well, you know, that they're going to make it all over again. Eskimo life sounds pretty swell in this climate, eh?"

"You'll miss some other things, too, won't you? That Variety Club Golf Tournament September 5 at the Manor Club?"

"I'll thank you, Mrs. Slewfoot, not to refer to my inability to DO anything in that line. You know how we critics feel about not being able to really DO anything."

"That's what I mean about your taking a vacation. What on earth will you do in the mountains that you can't do sitting right here on the job . . . Why! Mr. Coe! Don't you dare throw that telephone at me!"

IT'S A WISE CHILD—RKO's Myrna Dell exhorts sunbathers to follow her example. "Lotion lavishly," says Myrna, "and never stay too long in the sun." Her bosses let her illustrate between scenes of "Indian Summer"

Dorseys Tootle Beautifully; Acting Should Be Dubbed In

By Leo Brady

Usually when the movie industry turns somebody's life into a picture, the problem is to find an actor they can dub a voice in behind.

With "The Fabulous Dorseys" now at the Columbia, the problem is reversed. Both Jimmy and Tommy are fine in this picture, which purports to represent their climb to podium fame, as long as they have musical instruments in their mouths. But when they put down the brass and the reed and pretend to pretend, they can only be described as squares. Too bad they couldn't have played it tacit.

Nevertheless, their fans will probably be interested in watching their rise to the top. Because the brothers seem to have squabbled constantly through life, alternately playing solo and duet, the script writers had a slightly different approach and the story base is somewhat sounder than usual for musical biography. The love story, for instance, is relegated to second place and is, therefore, less offensive.

Art Tatum and Charlie Barnett drop into one scene for what is undoubtedly a jam session, and although Barnet gets through a few bars unbothered, Tatum no sooner puts his mitts on the keyboard than Janet Blair and William Lundigan go into one of their periodic spats. These lovers' quarrels interrupt the music about once every reel, but then audiences are possibly immune to them by now.

The film is best in its early phases when it picks up the Brothers Dorsey in Shenandoah, Pa. These sequences are by no means up to the boyhood scenes the movies made for Gershwin and Jolson, partly because they crawl along largo, but it's no fault of Sara Allgood and Arthur Shields, who do their best as the parents.

A Critical Heroine

Richard Englash, Art Arthur and Curtis Kenyon did the script and their idea of dialogue is original only in a couple of places. They give a wonderful line to a waiter in a juke joint scene and they have the courage to let their heroine criticize a brand new song written by the hero as "Nice, very nice."

"THE FABULOUS DORSEYS," United Artists release produced by Charles R. Rogers. Screenplay by Richard English. Art Arthur and Curtis Kenyon. Directed by Alfred E. Green. At the Columbia Theater.

Ziggy Elman	Stuart Foster
	Ray Bauduc

Tradition frightens them here, however, and later on she pronounces his concerto "Wonderful," proving that heroines in musicals are tone-deaf.

The concerto, by the way, pulls the Dorseys together at the end, presumably in time for this picture, proving that pseudo-Gershwin is thicker than blood.

Swing addicts may be interested in seeing Henry Busse, Helen O'Connell, Bob Eberly, Ray Bauduc, Mike Pingatore, Ziggy Elman and Stuart Foster—but they'll have to look awfully fast.

So, you can hear all the famous Dorsey tunes and you can watch Sara Allgood and Arthur Shields act, but you don't get the words and the music together anywhere.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Hollywood May Ask Ban on British Films

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

Insiders are wagering the British Labor Government will ease its tax crackdown on U. S. movies.

Johnston

Reason for this optimism is a trump card U. S. film-makers have been waving threateningly behind the scenes at the Attlee regime. This counterblow is a bar on American importation of British films.

A move of this kind would hit the British very hard. Last year, they derived 22 million dollars from U. S. moviegoers; this year's estimate is around 30 million dollars.

The threatened ban is not an idle gesture. The eight largest studios in Hollywood have urged such action on Eric Johnston, film czar, if the British government doesn't come to terms. The producers already have outlawed the export of pictures to England.

Odd Test

Universal plaint among Government officials is their inability to obtain "high-class personnel." They are constantly wailing about being unable to persuade "good men" to take Government jobs.

One very good reason for this difficulty is to be found in some of the peculiar questions of a so-called "psychological test" required by the Central Intelligence Group. This is one of the questions an applicant for a CIG job must answer:

"At what age did you stop wetting your bed?"

Hot Time in Rio

There are going to be a lot of other things settled at the Rio conference in addition to the fate of Pan-American unity. One is a red-hot vendetta seething in the curvacious bosom of Dona Maria Eva Duarte de Peron, ornamental and ambitious wife of Argentina's semidictator President.

"Evita," as Senora Peron is widely known, is bent on using the conference to settle a score with Dr. Ricardo Guardo, president of the Argentine Chamber of Deputies. This is the behind-the-scenes story of the reason for the lady's fury:

Shortly after Evita's arrival in Spain, on the first lap of her recent, much-publicized European tour, opposition Deputy Ernesto Sammartino rose in the chamber and proposed a new law. Under its terms, wives and relatives of government officials would be barred from accepting decorations from foreign countries.

The target of the bill was obvious. Evita had just been decorated by Spanish Dictator Franco with the Grand Cross of Isabella the Catholic amid much pomp and hoopla.

Sammartino's bill threw the chamber into an uproar. Peronists and the small but solidly united opposition screamed insults and invectives at one another, and a number came to blows. The net result of the stormy session was three duels and a court order to Dr. Guardo from Evita in Madrid to have Sammartino "removed from the chamber before I return."

In government circles in Buenos Aires the glamorous "Presidenta's" word is law. So, dutifully, the wheels are set in motion to bounce Sammartino.

This seemed certain, as the Peronists constitute two thirds of the chamber, exactly the number needed to expel a member. But strangely, two majority members developed a mysterious illness and failed to show up. Even more strangely, two other Peronists bluntly announced they would not vote for the expulsion motion.

This defiance ended any hope of axing the irreverent Sammartino.

In an effort to put the best face possible on the embarrassing situation, Dr. Guardo personally moved the tabling of the expulsion resolution. But, as so often happens to intermediaries, Guardo got no thanks from the frustrated Evita. She furiously accused him of "failing" her, and sent word she would settle with him when she got back.

That revenge is now in the works.

Dr. Guardo is one of the advisers of the Argentine delegation to the Rio Conference. Evita notified Peron that she also wanted a place on the delegation as a counselor. There is no question she will get it, thus making her Guardo's superior and in a position to make life very unhappy for him.

Hell hath no fury . . .

Merry-Go-Round

President Truman keeps a daily diary, which he started the first day he entered the White House. . . . Former Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia has returned from the hospital, where he underwent a serious operation, and is convalescing at his home. . . .

Louis Sachar, New York textile manufacturer and close friend of the late Wendell Willkie, is slated for an important economic advisory post in the Truman Administration. . . . In appreciation of his outstanding work in the U. S. Military Government in Germany, Gov. Matt Szymczak of the Federal Reserve Board was decorated by the Belgian government with the diamond-studded Order of the Crown. However, the law bars a Federal Reserve director from accepting jewelry, so Szymczak has turned the valuable decoration over to the U. S. Treasury.

No Hurry

Admiral William D. Leahy, friend and personal Chief of Staff to Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, is a patient man. In his 72 years, he has seen many wars come and go, and personally participated in three. But former Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong gave Leahy what he considers his best lesson in patience.

Leahy and Soong were discussing concessions to Russia in connection with the Manchurian Railway, which, before the war, was jointly owned by Russia and China.

"If you don't give in to the Russians," Leahy said, "they probably will grab all of Manchuria and you will get nothing."

Soong pursed his lips for a moment and then said quietly: "We can't yield as a matter of principle. If the Russians take Manchuria, we'll get it back sooner or later. They won't be able to keep it long."

"How soon would you expect to get it back?" asked Leahy.

"Oh, it wouldn't be too long, perhaps 500 years."

Leahy looked sharply at Soong. But he was dead serious.

"To the Chinese," Soong observed, "500 years is a short time."

Secret of Life Outlined to Printers

Cleveland, Aug. 17 (AP).—Expanded production is "the secret of life" for both the International Typographical Union and the newspaper industry, a session of the union's eighty-ninth convention was told today by N. R. Howard, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Howard, who is editor of the Cleveland News, spoke at a meeting honoring veteran members of the union's Cleveland local.

"No conceivable harm can come to your brotherhood, one of the most potent unions in the world's history, if you stick to that great truth that production is the secret of life in a very dangerous, wicked and restless world," said Howard.

"It is not a truth for just the officers of your union, or for the minutes of your meeting. It is a truth that calls for safe keeping in the hearts of all of you and all of us. These longtime brethren whom you honor this afternoon are great because they have been producers."

Cardinals Win, Gain Game as Dodgers Lose; Nats Stretch Losing Streak to Seven Straight

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

BOB FELLER'S curve may get him to Cuba where his fast ball failed. A week ago he reared back and let fly with the announcement that he would play five games in October with a Cuban winter league team, and Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler knocked that idea of Feller's out of the lot with a firm "No."

POVICH

So over the weekend, Feller tried another delivery, with a lot of spin on it. He was curving Chandler this time with the announcement that if he played in Cuba, the $18,000 he would get for five games would be turned over to the ball players pension fund in a completely unselfish gesture by Feller. It was a somewhat neat maneuver to put Chandler on a new kind of spot.

In any event Feller must make his peace with Chandler. The Commissioner's authority is well-defined in the matter. He can approve or disapprove barnstorming trips as he sees fit and whether he will be swayed from his original decision to limit Feller's barnstorming, in the light of Feller's newest offer, is doubtful. In fact, I don't like Feller's chances. Chandler may construe it as an attempt to buy him off.

FELLER HAS ALREADY succeeded, however, in moving himself off an embarrassing spot. All summer long, in repeated statements, the Cleveland fire-ball artist, has been maintaining that he is fighting for a principle—the players' right to work at their trade in the off-season to supplement the sometimes too small salaries they get from the big league owners.

"I'm not doing this for myself," was Feller's theme. "I've got enough money. I won't starve if I never pitch another ball. I've got two homes, a couple of cars, a boat, an airplane and money in the bank. I don't need the money, but other ballplayers do. I'm carrying the fight for them."

He made it sound pretty sincere, and then up came this Cuban winter league business when Feller revealed that he had signed to play five games for a league team managed by Mike Guerra. He would get a lot of dough, obviously, but where were the other ballplayers for whom he was making the great fight? He wasn't taking them to the Cuban league with him. Whether or not his hand was forced by Chandler's anti-Cuban edict, Feller regained his status as champion of the down-trodden by offering to dump his earnings into the pension fund.

FELLER ALREADY has the permission of Cleveland Owner Bill Veeck to take the Cuba trip. That was one of the requirements, even before he could make application for Chandler's approval. It is not surprising at all that Veeck would consent. Feller has any Cleveland owner over a barrel. A Cleveland club might as well close up shop if it does not keep Feller contented.

Veeck is a nice guy to start with, and he probably wouldn't frown on Feller's off-season activities in any case, but he is a practical man also. Feller, you also gather, is a practical man, who intends to make so much money out of baseball. If the Cleveland club forbade Feller to do the barnstorming he likes, they'd have to make it good with him in a salary way, and what it adds up to is the club's willingness to let Feller get a considerable part of his yearly earnings from other sources.

Feller is asking Chandler to waive a rule. He knew, or should have, that the commissioner didn't approve of fly-by-night appearance of major leaguers in the Cuban league, which Chandler tacitly recognized as an organized circuit. Feller's statement that he would pitch five games for the Cubans, but wouldn't be a member of the team, adds up to double-talk that Chandler can recognize.

CHANDLER IS PROUD of the manner in which he handled the one-time troublesome Cuban situation. In his first year as commissioner, he found turmoil, with the Mexican Pasquels threatening to make Cuba an irretrievably outlaw bastion of baseball. Chandler held out a friendly hand to Cuba, helped one Havana club into organized baseball in the Florida International League, and promised to permit a certain number of major leaguers to play winter ball there if they kept the Pasquel outlaws out.

Cuba did all of that. A limited number of Americans may be permitted to play again in Cuba this year, but not for any five-game period as Feller proposes. Chandler sees that as disruption of the Cuban league, and Feller will probably be turned down despite his offer to turn his earnings into the pension fund.

Thus far, Feller and the other ballplayers have no justifiable quarrel with Chandler's actions. His predecessor, Judge Landis, limited the ballplayers to 10 days of barnstorming after the season closed. One of Chandler's first acts was to raise the limit to 30 days. So far, he's been the ballplayers' friend.

Griffs Scare Macks in Opener, 2-1; 2d Lost, 5-2

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The Nats made good on their chance to stretch their losing streak to seven straight yesterday. The opportunity came in a double-header with the Athletics and after losing the first game, 2 to 1, the Nats made it unanimous with a 5-2 defeat in the second game.

Victory in the opening game was barely averted by the Nats. They had a 1-0 lead going into the eighth inning and the situation was becoming threatening, but the A's kept the Washington losing streak alive with two quick runs that defeated Early Wynn.

All was serene in the second game, however. It was so darn serene that the Nats didn't even get a hit off Phil Marchildon until one was out in the seventh when Mickey Vernon's ill-timed triple broke up Marchildon's bid for a no-hitter. Eventually, the Nats gave Marchildon a four-hit going-over.

Wynn Tries It Alone

Wynn and the Nats appeared as if they were working at cross-purposes in the first game. That is, Wynn looked as if he was trying to win. He found himself in a scoreless duel with Dick Fowler for six innings and when the Nats didn't get him any runs, he went out and got one for himself with a whistling homer over the right field wall.

In the eighth, his 1-0 lead didn't stand up, though. With two out, the A's commenced to win the ball game. Pitcher Fowler got in the first lick, a single to right, and McCoskey followed with a double to right. What Joost followed with was a double to left that scored 'em both and won the ball game.

Priddy Takes Long Way Home

Wynn was still trying to win the game for himself in the last of the ninth. He already had a single and homer to his credit when he came up in a situation that found Gerry Priddy on first and two out. Priddy was on base because with a woeful sacrifice attempt he had forced Joe Grace who had opened up with a single. Anyway, Wynn blasted a line-drive two-bagger into right center.

Priddy tried to score all the way from first, but he rounded third via the Dardanelles Straits and by the time he was back on the track, it was too late. A relay from Binks to Suder to Joost nipped him at the plate with the tying run.

The two clubs kicked up a lot of dust at the plate in that first game, incidentally. After Binks tripled with one out in the fourth, Stan Spence took Fain's fly and threw Binks out at the plate for a double play. And when Joost tried to score from second on Fain's single in the seventh Spence threw him out, too.

Wow! Nats Get 10 Hits

The Nats made 10 hits to seven for the A's in that contest, but Mickey Vernon was no help. In the first and third innings with men on third and one out, Vernon couldn't get either of 'em home. Lewis was caught at the plate by McCosky in the third when he tried to score on Vernon's fly.

The 11,098 customers were openly pulling for Marchildon to pitch a no-hitter after the midway mark of the second game, when the A's had a 5-0 lead after batting Mickey Haefner out. He disposed of 17 men in order and no Nat reached base until Shortstop Joost booted Candini's grounder with two out in the sixth.

Haefner didn't last beyond the third inning. The A's clipped him for a run in the second on Guerra's single, a double by Suder and Majeski's fly, and in the third they whacked him good.

They got four runs in that third inning on five consecutive hits. Joost grounded out and then, in succession, Binks singled to right, Fain singled to right, Chapman singled to left, Guerra beat out a hit to Christmas, and Suder doubled with the bases full.

What a Scoring Spree!

In Marchildon's hands, that 5-0 lead was prohibitive. The Nats got a run in the seventh when Vernon tripled and Grace singled to right. Christmas followed with a single but Sullivan got Marchildon out of the inning with a double-play grounder.

Mele's Single In 11th Drops Yankees, 3-0

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—Sam Mele's two-run single in the eleevnth inning broke up a pitching duel between veteran Denny Galehouse and young Vic Raschi and paced the Boston Red Sox to a 3-0 victory over the New York Yankees today. The defeat was Raschi's first for the Yanks this year and made his record 6-1.

In taking the odd game of the series after dropping the first two, the Red Sox trimmed the Yanks' league lead to 12½ games.

A paid crowd of 45,840 saw the old-timer and the rookie match goose-eggs until the top of the eleventh. Then Birdie Tebbetts led off with a double down the left field line.

After Don Gutteridge went in to run for the catcher, Sam Dente poked a bunt single sending Gutteridge to third. Galehouse sacrificed, moving Dente to second. Mele, the Bosox's prize rookie, whacked out a single to drive in a pair of runs and moved to second on the play on Dente at home. Johnny Pesky singled, scoring Mele with the final tally.

In scoring his eighth victory against six defeats, including one win and three losses with the St. Louis Browns, Galehouse hurled a six-hitter and allowed only one batter, Joe DiMaggio, to get to third.

The eleventh frame spure gave Boston its first runs off Yankee pitching in 33 innings.

Raschi gave up four hits in the final inning and a total of eight.

Hartford, Conn., admirers presented Joe DiMaggio with a car before the game.

Motorcycle Racer Killed

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17 (AP).—One rider was killed and three were injured today in Illinois State Fair motorcycle races. Jimmy Chann of Deerfield, N. Y., won the 25-mile feature event.

Kenny J. Ingle, of Columbus, Ohio, was killed in a last lap pileup of machines during a five-mile race.

Ted Evans, of Venice, Calif., and Bob Hill, of Columbus, Ohio, were taken to St. John's Hospital for treatment of injuries received in the fatal pileup. Another racer, Floyd Emde, of San Diego, Calif., was slightly injured in the pileup, but was not hospitalized.

Bee Bee Bids for Recognition Against Yarosz Here Tonight

By Bill Ahlberg
Post Reporter

IT WILL BE unnecessary for the referee to tell Bee Bee Washington and Tommy Yarosz to "shake hands and come out fighting" at Griffith Stadium tonight when he gives them their battle instructions.

For both Bee Bee and his classy Pittsburgh middleweight opponent have a lot at stake.

The 25-year-old Yarosz, unbeaten in his last 45 bouts and the No. 3 man on the NBA's light-heavyweight list, will be a slight favorite to repeat the hair-line decision he scored over Bee Bee in Pittsburgh last February. But that doesn't bother Pappa Washington.

"To get somewhere in the fight business you got to lick somebody who's already there," observed Bee Bee yesterday. "And that's what I'm going to do against Yarosz."

* * * *

YAROSZ, BROTHER of former middleweight champion Tommy Yarosz, hopes to scale 165 for the affair and if he does he'll probably spot Bee a couple of pounds.

Washington accepted the February bout on three days' notice and fought Yarosz one of the best fights Pittsburgh customers have paid to see in many months. There were more than several in the house that night who thought Washington earned a draw at least.

There's no disputing Yarosz' ability. He has lost but two of his 62 professional fights and his triumphs include victories over Jimmy Edgar, a highly regarded Detroit 175-pounder, and rough-and-ready Jose Basora, whom he sent to the hospital with a brain concussion.

* * * *

WASHINGTON'S LAST trip was a losing one—against Smuggy Hursey at the ball park May 26. The Bee was winging his way to victory over the District's leading middleweight contender that evening only to lose a stretch battle.

Hursey, incidentally, will be a spectator at tonight's event and he'll have his eyes glued on the proceedings. Matchmaker Gabe Menendez, of the Turner's Arena crowd, wants to match the winner of the scrap with the Smug for his last September show and Hursey has indicated a slight willingness to go along with those plans.

Washington has always been a popular figure here and his bid for Nation-wide recognition is expected to lure 8000 customers through the gates.

In supporting bouts for tonight's show: Art Bethea meets Jimmy Robinson; Charlie Toler takes on Billy Unke and Melvin Wade fights Walter Roane, all in five-round bouts.

Both Nightcaps Off; Brooks' Lead Now 4½

Redbirds Edge Pirates, 6 to 5

Pittsburgh, Aug. 17 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals gained ground in the hot National League pennant fight today as they edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 6 to 5 in the first game of a double-header and then fought to a 0-0 in the nightcap that was called in the last of the fifth because of wet grounds.

The Dodgers lost the opener to the Phils, 4-0, and then were held to a 4-4 draw in the nightcap. The Dodgers now lead by 4½ games.

The Pirates had one out and a man on base when a sudden shower drenched the field. The umpires held up the game a half hour and then called it off.

Home runs by Frank Gustine and Hank Greenberg in the first game set a new National League record of 16 homers in five games. The old record of 15 was set by the New York Giants in 1924.

Dutch Leonard Stops Bums, 4-0

Philadelphia, Aug. 17 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 4-0 in the first game of a doubleheader today behind the brilliant seven-hit pitching of Emil (Dutch) Leonard and the second game ended in a six inning 4-4 stalemate halted by the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew law.

The Dodgers took a 5-4 lead in the first half of the seventh inning of the second game but the Phils were unable to complete their time at bat and the score reverted to the previous inning.

The single defeat left the Dodgers 4½ games ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals who defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates at Pittsburgh in the first of two games and were halted by wet grounds in the first half of the fifth inning of the second game.

Leonard's win was his second shutout in a row and his fourteenth victory against seven defeats for the season. He contributed two hits and drove in two runs. The Dodgers made seven errors, only one of the Phils' runs being earned.

In the second game the Dodgers scored twice in the first inning on three hits, added another in the second, and picked up their final run in the fourth inning on two singles and Ralph Lapointe's error.

Del Ennis and Johnny Wyrostek pounded doubles to score the first Phil run in the third inning. The Phils closed their scoring in the fifth by tabbing three runs on three hits, two bases on balls.

Congdon Wins Portland Open

Portland, Oreg., Aug. 17 (AP).—Lanky Charles Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., won the $10,000 Portland Open today with a 72-hole score of 270.

Congdon finished with a blazing 64, eight under par for the Portland Country Club course, to take first money of $2000 and establish himself in the winner's circler of a big event after a quest of a dozen years or so.

The 64, for which he coupled a pair of 32s, overtook the leader of the first three rounds, Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., on the final nine today. At the sixty-third hole, he had pulled up on even terms with Palmer after the latter had started the final 18 with a two-stroke lead, 204 to Congdon's 206.

Congdon put together four rounds as follows: 68-72-66-64. The total slashed 18 strokes off par for the course, which plays to a 35-37—72 standard.

Congdon's great round was within a stroke of the Portland Country Club competitive record, 63s by Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., two years ago and by Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, last year.

Former Cornell Grid Star Dies

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 17 (AP).—Clinton R. Wyckoff, industrialist and All-America quarterback in 1895 when he played for Cornell University, died at his home last night after a six-week illness. He was 72.

Wyckoff was president and treasurer of the Atlas Steel Casting Co., a firm which he helped to found in 1911. In addition he was a director of the Wyckoff Drawn Steel Co. of Pittsburgh.

Woody Pirie Wins Yacht Race Trophy

Browns, Tribe Each Win One

St. Louis, Aug. 17 (AP).—A three-run uprising in the fifth inning by the Cleveland Indians gave them the margin needed to beat the St. Louis Browns 4 to 3 in the second game of a double-header today after Paul Lehner pulled the first contest out of the fire for St. Louis, 7 to 6, with a 3-run ninth-inning home run.

Al Lopez singled, Fred Sanford threw low on Pitcher Al Gettel's bunt, letting Lopez reach third and Gettel second, and Dale Mitchell singled both runners home. Mitchell scored later on Hal Peck's hit.

Conversion Of Passer Is Complete

Los Angeles, Aug. 17.—The conversion of Samuel Adrian Baugh to the T formation has been completed.

There has been no doubt of this in the minds of any of the Washington Redskins coaches during the current summer training at Occidental College.

If there was any in the mind of the National League's greatest passer he must have banished it after the second scrimmage session held Saturday.

Time was when Baugh wished there never was such a thing as a T formation. Being the kind of a guy who is willing to do what he's told, Baugh didn't resist the invasion of the T into the Redskin camp, but it must be accurately said he never cared for it.

Rough Change for Him

Baugh knew as well or better than the Redskin management that the transition for him would be rough. He'd have to acquire a whole new routine of habits in his play; break himself of old habits acquired in eight years of pro football.

After his first year with the T Baugh was unhappy indeed. Some so-called experts only said Sammy never could do it. But the Redskins coaching staff knew better. Last year Baugh was far from being a perfectionist in handling the pigskin. But this summer he's showing amazing improvement.

The Los Angeles Rams, who have always feared Baugh's passing, are apt to learn a new fear when the two teams clash in the Times game on the night of September 5. Baugh simply is acquiring that knack of feeding the ball with a sleight-of-hand performer's technique like Waterfield and Luckman.

Sammy Happy About It

This fact apparently impressed itself on Baugh after the Redskins' second scrimmage because he was as excited as a college freshman who had scored his first touchdown. Of course Sammy had other things to be happy about. He completed passes to six different backs and four ends during the scrimmage.

That means that the Redskins have a raft of good receivers this year as compared with last fall when Steve Bagarus was about the only man on the team who could hang onto the ball with any consistency.

Yes, Mr. Baugh has been converted and the Rams and other league teams might just as well starting worrying about it now as any time.

How to Play Tennis

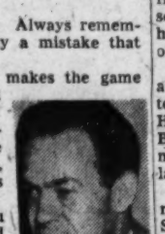
This is the last of a series of articles by the District's leading tennis figures in conjunction with The Washington Post-Recreation Department Tennis School.

Tennis Manners

By Bill Shreve
Tennis School Commissioner

AMATEUR TENNIS is a game, not a business. Always remember that, and it will save you from making many a mistake that you will later regret.

There is a code in tennis which, if observed, makes the game more enjoyable. Learn what is right when you first start playing.



Bill Shreve

Whenever you are not sure whether your opponent's shot is in or out of bounds, give him the benefit of the doubt. If, during a tournament, an umpire calls a ball good which you think was out, accept his decision without crabbing.

Never make exclamations of disgust when you make a poor shot. The only time you should speak during a match is to congratulate an opponent for making a good placement.

* * * *

BE PROMPT for matches. By keeping your opponent waiting, you might delay several other matches on a tournament schedule.

Fight hard for every point and play to win, but don't forget that it's no disgrace to lose. Even the best players occasionally lose matches, and a real champion is a good loser.

Always be modest when you win. Some of the best known players in the country have poor reputations and are unpopular with tennis spectators because of their cockiness and obvious conceit.

Other top notchers are known to argue with officials, crab when they lose points, and make disparaging remarks about their opponents. Such players have the respect of no one despite their tennis ability.

They seem to have forgotten that tennis is a game, not a business. Such players have even forgotten that playing tennis can be a lot of fun.

Irish War Vets Win VFW League Title

The Irish War Vets won their ninth consecutive league victory yesterday, trimming Walter Reed Post, 8-2, to clinch the second half championship of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Baseball League.

Bernie Myles, former Eastern High star, struck out 15 Walter Reed batsmen while allowing only four hits and no walks. Wayne Combs paced the Irish attack by batting in four runs and scoring two more himself.

U. S. Women Win Easily

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—The Wightman Cup tennis matches—such as they were—drew to their predestined conclusion at Forest Hills today, with America's fearsome lady racket swingers again holding a 7-to-0 decision over their old rivals from Great Britain.

The final, faint element of doubt about the result was removed in today's opening match, when Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., defeated Mrs. Betty Hilton, a somewhat chubby matron from Birmingham, England, 4—6, 6—3, 7—5.

That, with the three victories racked up yesterday, gave Uncle Sam's amazons the four wins necessary to clinch the international trophy and they went right on and won three more.

Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., gave the best tennis demonstration of the two days in beating Mrs. Jean Nicoll Bostock, 6—4, 6—4.

Miss Osborne of San Francisco, America's No. 1 player, racked up her second singles win of the series at the expense of Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies. The scores were 7—5, 6—2.

The slaughter of the innocents finally ended in the gathering dusk as the Misses Brough and Osborne combined to crush Mrs. Bostock and Mrs. Hilton by scores of 6—1, 6—4.

D. C. Boys Beaten by Wilmington

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 17 (AP). A Wilmington (Del.) team, forced to play the entire tournament with only nine men, won the American Legion Junior Baseball Region 3 championship today with a 4-2 decision over Bunker Hill Post of Washington, D. C.

The triumph was the third straight in regional play for the Delaware champions, who lost three regular players when a last-minute disqualification was upheld by a national legion committee.

The winners enter sectional play at Manchester, N. H., on Wednesday.

Weird D. C. Fielding

Sparked by a sterling four-hit pitching job by Right-hander Jack Malloy, Wilmington broke a 2-2 tie at the expense of Relief Pitcher Kerschbaum and some weird Washington fielding in the ninth to sew up the verdict.

Center-fielder Paul Jones led off with a single, advanced to second on Winstead's sacrifice and then scored when the losers' defense fell apart.

Malloy struck out, but was safe at first when the ball slipped past the Washington catcher. First Baseman Zatz's hurried return throw to the plate was wild as Jones tallied.

Malloy Scores

Malloy moved on to second, then raced to the plate on Bobby Kane's single.

Washington tallied in the second on Zat's single, a stolen base, an infield out and Kallas' single, and picked up its other run in the fourth on a single by Cook, Zatz's sacrifice, a wild pitch and an infield out.

Parker, Mulloy Win Doubles

Newport, R. I., Aug. 17 (AP).—Frank Parker and Gardner Mulloy upset favored Ted Schroeder and Jack Kramer, 3—6, 6—3, 6—3, 6—1, to win the Newport Casino Doubles championship here today.

Earlier, Schroeder defeated Billy Talbert, 4—6, 6—3, 7—5, 6—4, in the singles final. His strenuous netstorming tactics, while defeating the steady Talbert, sapped his strength for the doubles match.

Parker and Mulloy directed their fire at the tiring Schroeder as they coasted through the last three sets. Parker's impressive play boosted his stock for an appointment to the Davis Cup team.

G. W. Sailors Finish Second

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 17.—The George Washington University Sailing Team finished second behind Harvard in the sixth annual Leonard M. Fowle Trophy Regatta on the Charles River.

Harvard scored 214 points to G. W.'s 210. Third was M. I. T. with 202, fourth was the Marchant Marine Academy with 169 and in fifth place was Boston University with 147 points.

Eric Nordholm, commodore of the G. W. team, finished second in the individual standings with 104 points.

Soccer Champs Arrive

New York, Aug. 17 (AP).—The Ferencvarosi Torna of Budapest, Hungarian national soccer champions, will arrive here Tuesday from Mexico, where they played a series of six games.

The Battle Still Rages

Democrats Aren't Quite Sure GOP Beat Them in Baseball

By The Associated Press

A (political?) argument is still going on about that baseball game in which House Republicans defeated the Democrats July 12.

The final issue of the Congressional Record, out this weekend, recorded Representative Price (D., Fla.) as having thanked all who took part, and then went into this discourse:

MR. PRICE: I think it should be observed at this point in regard to the score . . . which was 16 to 13, but if the rain had not knocked the Democrats out of their last bat it would have been a different story.

MR. WORLEY (D., TEX.): I am sure everyone understands that the score would have been different had we our last bat.

MR. PRICE: Naturally the score would have been entirely different. That is right.

MR. COOLEY (D., N. C.): It seemed to me that sometime during the game somebody knocked a home run.

MR. PRICE: Yes. We will not say anything about who was playing center field at the time. You have all heard of "Wrong Way" Corrigan.

MR. KNUTSON (R., MINN.): That home run was an optical illusion.

MR. ARENDS (R., ILL.): Without making it a matter of record, can the gentleman tell us whether or not the ball was ever recovered?

MR. PRICE: The ball was found after about 10 or 15 minutes. Of course, Mr. Cooley made the slight mistake of running toward second base when he should have run for the bleachers.

Col. Powel Defeats Ritzenberg For Recreation Tennis Crown

Col. Nick Powel won the Recreation Department Tennis Championship by downing Hy Ritzenberg, 6—1, 6—3, 6—2, yesterday on the 16th and Kennedy sts. courts.

Almost every placement Powel scored during the straight-set victory was scored on a drop shot. In tme first set alone Powell racked up nine clean placements with it and scored numerous other points when Ritzenberg got his racket on the ball but returned it into the net or out of bounds.

Seeing what success he was having with his drop shot, Powel used it more and more as the match went on. Ritzenberg's typical back court game left him wide open and Powel had little trouble controlling the match.

In the men's doubles, Powel returned to the court with Edgar Powers to defeat Ritzenberg and Charles Hackney, 6—0, 3—6, 6—3, 6—2. Powel's steadiness and smart tactics combined with Powers' spectacular overheads were too much for the losers, who made a game batt le of it for two sets.

Margaret Sweeney and Elinor Shaw won the women's doubles title over Mrs. Betts Custer and Jane Freeman, 6—1, 1—6, 6—3. The Custer-Freeman team led 3—0 in the final set, only to see their lead disappear as the Shaw-Sweeney pair took six games in a row to run out the set and take the match.

Mrs. Custer won the women's consolation singles from Glenore Hall, 6—3, 6—4, and in a mixed doubles semifinal match, George and Willie Herbert defeated Leonard Fry and Helen Levy, 6—0, 6—0.

The Herberts will meet Powel and Elinor Shaw today at 5:30 for the mixed doubles crown.

Two World Boat Records Are Set

Baltimore, Aug. 17 (AP).—Two new world speed records for motorboats were set today by Edison Hedges at the Cambridge Yacht club's annual regatta.

Piloting his Black Eagle, the attorney from Atlantic City, N. J., made two trips over a one-mile straightaway course at an average pace of 54.463 miles per hour to shatter the record he set himself earlier this season. He came back this afternoon to win the five-mile competitive race for class C, D, and E service runabouts with a new mark of 47.468 MPH. In the straightaway trial, Hedges eclipsed the old standard of 47.67 which he chalked up this summer at Bush River boat regatta. His time for the five-mile race erased an 8-year-old of 38.135 record set by My Jean II at Red Bank, N. J., with Philadelphia's Frederick Casanave piloting.

Blackwell Gets 19th as Reds Take 2

Cincinnati, Aug. 17 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds took a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs before 22,310 fans here today, winning the first, 2-0, as Grady Hatton's thirteenth homer with a teammate on base gave Ewell Blackwell his nineteenth victory of the season, and the second, 11-3, as the Reds smashed out 19 hits.

It was Blackwell's sixth shutout of the season. Blackwell allowed five hits, Erickson six.

Charleston Youth Wins Soapbox Derby

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 17 (AP).—Kenny Holmboe, 15, 6-foot Charleston, W. Va., entrant, won the annual Soap Box Derby before approximately 100,000 persons today, finishing a half length in front of his nearest competitor.

Braves Whip Giants Twice, 2-1 and 3-1

Boston, Aug. 17 (AP).—The Boston Braves today took both games of a doubleheader from the Giants, 2-1 and 3-1, before a paid crowd of 32,804, to sweep a four game series from the New Yorkers. The double victory, saw Lefty Warren Spahn turning in his fifteenth victory of the season in the opener and Big Bill Voiselle winning his fifth by edging his old mates in the second game.

By taking all four games the Braves moved from fourth into third place 3½ games ahead of the now fourth-place Giants.

The Giants outhit the Tribe in both contests by the same margin of eight to five. The big home run bats of the New Yorkers were held silent through the last three games.

Clint Hartung was wild in the opener as he issued 10 passes and the first two men so put on base scored both Boston runs.

Through the seventh inning of the closer, Andy Hansen gave up but two hits to the Tribe, one of them harmless, and walked only two, one intentionally. But one of the blows was a fourth inning double by Bob Elliott to drive in Johnny Hopp, who had walked.

The Braves added two more in the eighth inning of the nightcap to sew up the game although the Giants rallied for one run in the ninth.

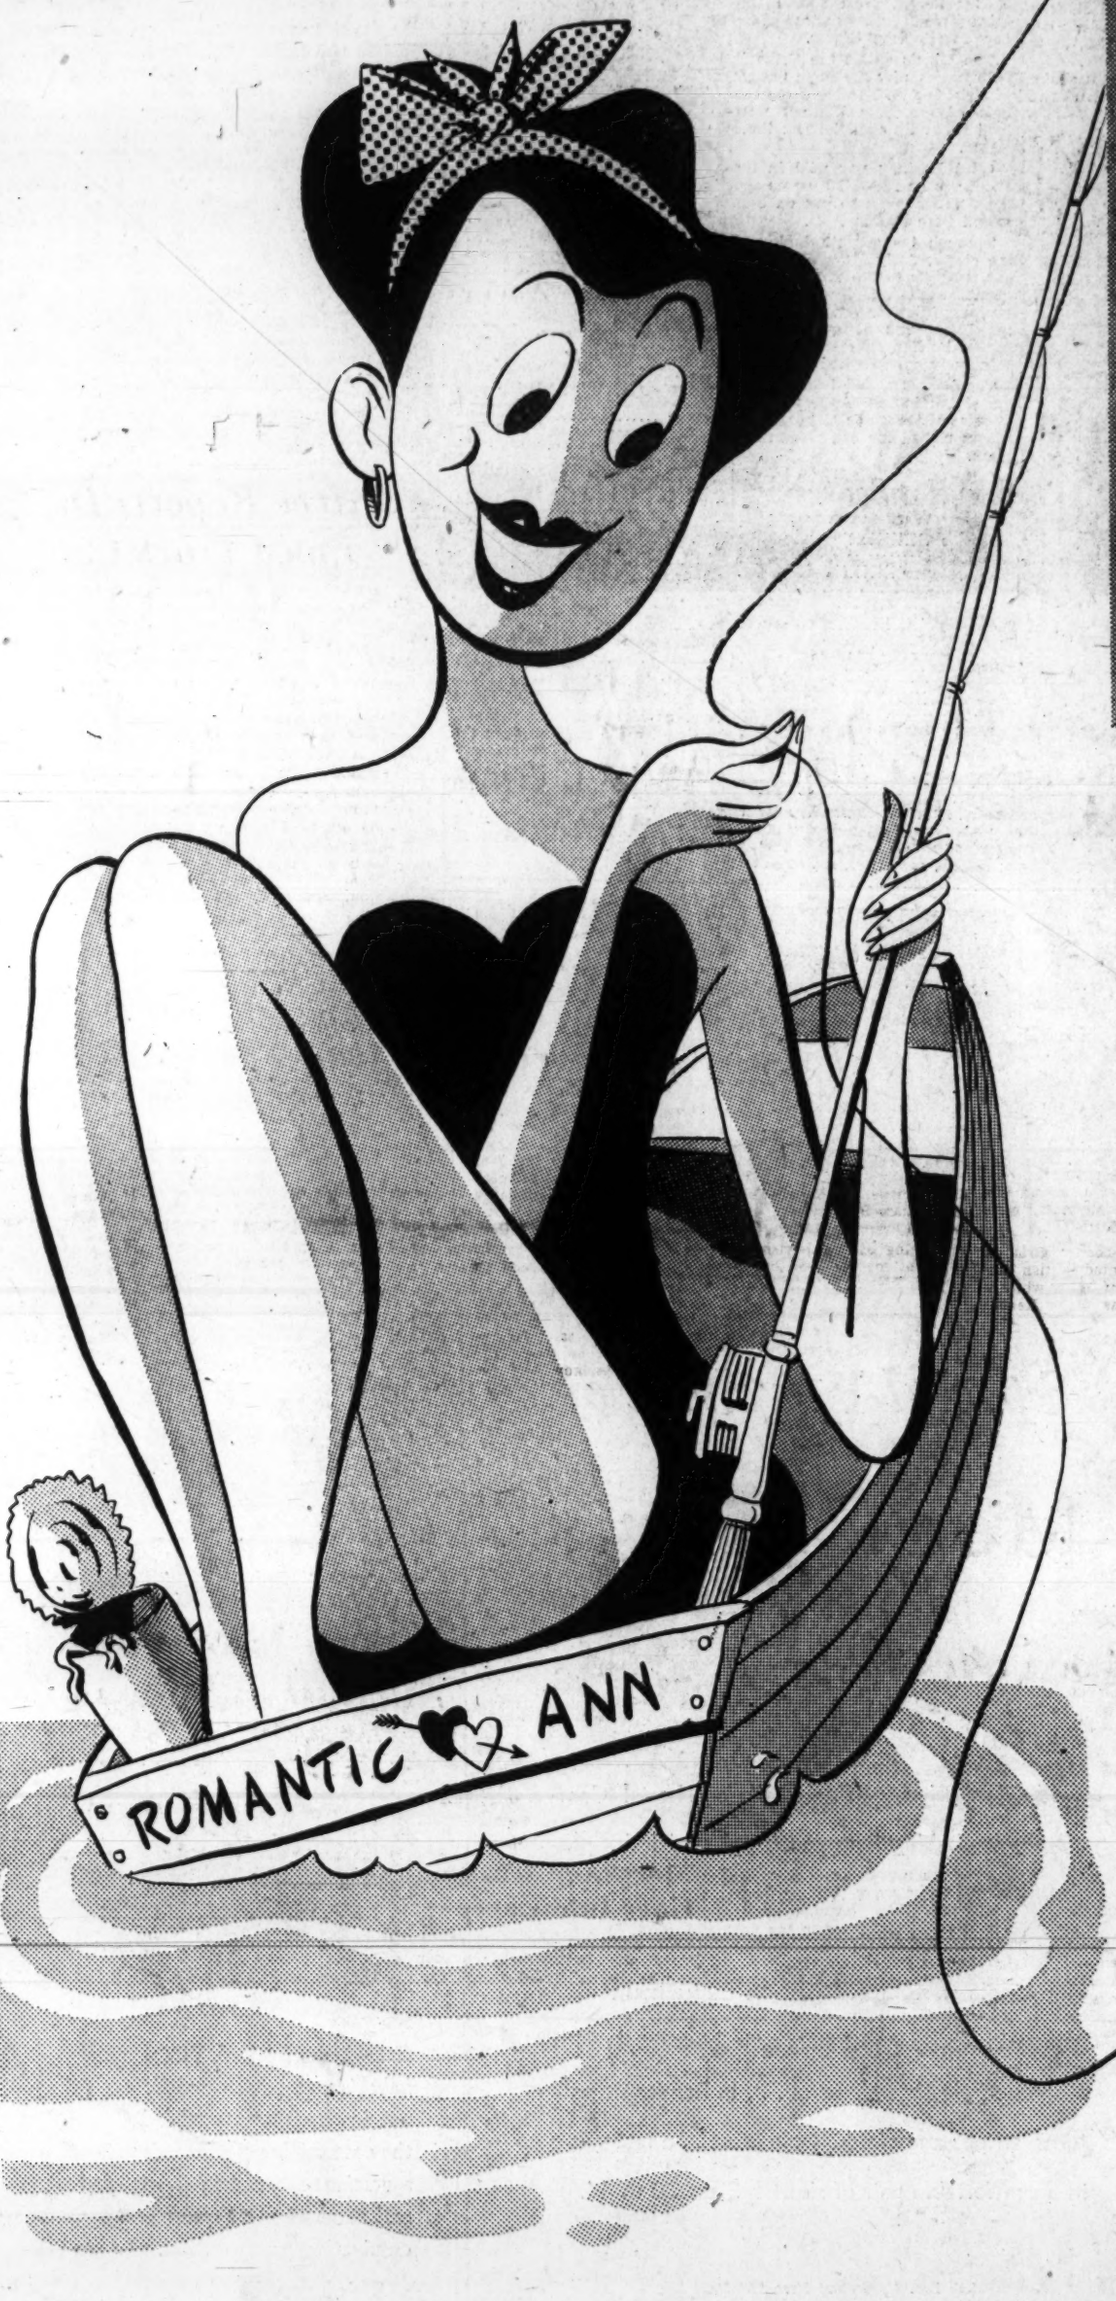
angling for romance is a great American custom.....and a pretty girl usually has a DIAMOND on her line



Izaak Walton . . . who was an expert in the art of fishing . . . could have learned a thing or two about the romance of angling from Modern Maidens of today. As old 17th Century Izaak would admit . . . when an American Beauty tosses out her line, she's interested in romance, all right . . . the kind of romance that has to do with star-studded nights and diamonds that sparkle. And when the diamond comes from Schwartz, she knows that she's made a catch to warm the heart of any Romantic Angler.

We don't intend to break any feminine secrets and tell how it's done . . . but once the match is made . . . we're prepared to step in with the voice of long experience . . . and a diamond to match your heart's desire . . . and your Young Man's Wallet. Partners in romance . . . that's the way we like to think of the Schwartz Diamond Department.

Like you . . . we think of diamonds as symbols of sentiment, and love. And as with every true sentiment, there must be no flaws and no imperfections in the stone's beauty. For generation after generation, the Schwartz standards of perfection have made our Diamond Display famous in Washington. Exquisitely cut, perfectly designed, shaped to capture all the brilliance of these rare gems . . . the Schwartz diamonds are eye-catchers on any third finger, left hand.

Angling for Romance is a great American custom, one which has a habit of repeating itself . . . generation after generation. If its angles on Romance you want, talk to Mother. But when you're angling for the Diamond, to start off a Lifetime of Happiness, the Wise Maiden (and the Boy Friend) head for Schwartz . . . a Great Name in Jewelry in the Nation's Capital.

Leslie Gayle Succumbs to Ax Wounds

Sister and Cousin's Condition Still Critical Following Attack by Father

Leslie Gayle, 10, of 1955 S. Kenmore st., Arlington, bludgeoned in his bed Saturday morning by his father, died at 10:25 a. m. yesterday in Arlington Hospital. His 6-year-old sister and a 9-year-old cousin, also beaten, were still in critical condition last night.

Arlington police say the father, Purley Gayle, 47, a $35-a-week employe of the County Refuse Department, confessed he bashed in the children's heads with the blunt end of an ax. Police quoted him as saying "I did not see how I could take care of them."

In critical condition were Leslie's sister, Sarah, and their cousin, Joseph Woolford, who was visiting the Gayle family at the time.

Police said the father told them after surrendering himself that he also intended to kill his wife and their oldest son, both of whom fled the house before the predawn attack. Later, he was reported as saying he was glad "the Lord saved the boy and his mother."

The three children were asleep in their bedroom of one-story, frame bungalow when Gayle crept up on them, police said. He was ordered held without bond Saturday on a charge of felonious assault.

VPI Alumni to Organize

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 17.—A chapter of the Virginia Tech Alumni Association embracing Fredericksburg and the counties of Spotsylvania, Stafford, King George and Caroline, will be formed at a meeting here at the Farmers Creamery auditorium September 3 at 8 p. m. Benton Gayle, superintendent of schools at Stafford and King George, is in charge of arrangements. H. B. Redd, national alumni secretary, will attend. Some 125 former Techmen live in this area.

Court to Convene

Richmond, Va., Aug. 17 (AP).—The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals will convene at 9:30 a. m. September 1 in the Masonic Building at Staunton to hear arguments in seven cases.

Docket for the brief session, prepared by Clerk M. B. Watts, lists two slaying cases, a case involving a technical argument on the disorderly conduct law, a case involving a charge of child beating and three civil actions.

Ponder Parking Meters

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 17.—Mayor Edward J. Waring and the local board of commissioners are considering the installation of parking meters in the business section. Since the location of the Naval Station at Patuxent River near here, the lack of parking facilities has created a serious problem.

District's Youngsters Mark Second Anniversary of VJ-Day

The Washington Post

FLOATS RECALL HISTORY—Celebrating the second anniversary of VJ-Day with a parade yesterday, hundreds of Washington youngsters marched down Constitution ave. Floats were led by a Marine Corps color guard. Above, at left is the float depicting "The Landing of the Pilgrims," by Bladensburg High School students. At right, one of the last floats in the parade, is the representation of "Iwo Jima," by five boys of the "Pipetown Pirates'" Club, of 910 Pennsylvania ave. se.

Long or Short?

Skirt Length Also Frets Fur Industry

Husbands, it turns out, aren't the only ones in a stew about Milady's new fashion lengths.

Whither the skirt—upward or downward? has had the New York fur industry in the kind of dither known only to the lady of style with a closetful of knee-length modes—and the fellow who pays for them.

David Kaplan, fur editor for a national trade paper, skirted around details of the problem yesterday at a one-day session of the National Institute of Cleaners and Dyers at Hotel Statler.

Later, he told a reporter the controversy held up fur coat production for more than a month, and cost the industry several million dollars. Hundreds were thrown out of work, he said, while "they marked time to see if the new styles would take."

And it was a big decision to make. Having to cut back a long coat, in the event either the man or lady of the house didn't like it, would mean "bankruptcy" to the industry, Kaplan pointed out.

Cautious in their decision, the industry is now engaged in turning out "trotteur" length coats—the shorter 35- to 38-inch style—with a few longer models, 43- to 45-inch lengths, intermingled.

So relax, girls. Your last year's coat can be in high style this winter too.

Knife Wielder Slashes Man On Streetcar

A 27-year-old man suffered cuts on both wrists, knee, back and scalp yesterday in a fight aboard a streetcar in the 1200 block of 7th st. nw.

The victim, Daniel Reed, 915 N st. nw., a laborer for Washington Gas Light Co., was given emergency treatment at Freedmen's Hospital.

Two Second Precinct policemen, Pvts. James D. Williams and Shirley F. O'Neill, passing the streetcar in a scout car, broke up the fight and arrested Roosevelt Robinson, 25, 1236 7th st. nw., who, they said, wielded the knife.

Robinson was being held last night at Second Precinct station on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

A 13-year-old boy lay in critical condition in Casualty Hospital last night after being stabbed in the chest with a penknife during a fight.

Two other participants in the fight, one 14 and the other 11, required hospital treatment.

The fight, police said, occurred at the 13-year-old boy's home in the unit block of K st. ne. Police said the 14-year-old was believed to have wielded the knife.

The eldest boy suffered a severe scalp laceration when struck by a comb. The third boy, the youngest, suffered a shoulder cut from a piece of glass thrown by one of the youthful combatants.

800 Children Parade to Mark 2d Anniversary of VJ-Day

About 800 children of the Greater Washington area paraded down Constitution ave. yesterday afternoon to commemorate the second anniversary of VJ-Day.

Floats, music and flags featured the 4 p. m. parade led by a Marine Corps color guard. Hundreds of parents and other spectators watched from the curb.

Patriotism and brotherhood of races and creeds were stressed in the floats and the program that followed at 16th st. and Ellipse rd.

The Landing of the Pilgrims, Washington Crossing the Delaware, and other episodes from American history, as well as more recent events such as the Bataan Death March and the signing of the Japanese surrender documents aboard the USS Missouri, were depicted in the floats.

A bevy of red-coated girls on horseback represented British cavalry of the War of 1812, while a blue-coated lad as Paul Revere rode alone.

William A. Hickey, 83, oldest member of the Catholic War Veterans, and a veteran of the Spanish-American War and Philippine Insurrection, as guest of honor, rode in a coach used by President Ulysses S. Grant.

Hickey was accompanied by Capt. John J. Murphy, USA (ret.) and Henry Brooks, also Spanish-American war veteran and members of the Catholic War Veterans.

David J. Bowman, commander of the District department of the organization and a World War II veteran, served as parade marshal.

"VJ-Day will be one of the most important dates in the history books of the future," Morton Freedman, program chairman, said following a salute to the flag in which Army and Navy color guards participated.

Hugh Guidi of Station WINX served as master of ceremonies for the program in the Ellipse.

Recalling the sinking of the USS Dorchester in World War II, in which a Catholic, Jewish and two Protestant chaplains linked arms and drowned after giving their life preservers to others, prayers of the three faiths were read by three youths. They were Bernie Bordenick, Robert Schwartz and William Barkley.

A feature of the program was the singing of the Jewish memorial chant for the dead by Cantor Solomon Katz of Beth Sholom Congregation, accompanied by the 702d Army Air Forces Orchestra from Andrews Field, led by Chief Warrant Officer Arthur Frederick.

Patriotic and Brotherhood

Aims of the Junior Peace Mobilizers, youth organization sponsoring the parade and program, were described by Manuel Berman and the Preamble to the Constitution was read by Anita Ruth Weitz.

Following a series of folk dances of various countries allied with the United States in World War II, the program concluded with a public dance.

Two Injured When Truck Overturns

A one-armed veteran's wife and his father were seriously injured yesterday when the truck the veteran was operating turned over on Route 211, near Bull Run, Va.

The accident was one of many reported to police within the greater Washington area yesterday. Others included the collision of a streetcar and automobile on Wisconsin ave., in which the streetcar was driven back into an automobile behind it.

Virginia police said the pick-up truck of Cecil Hager, 24, Ashford, Va., overturned when Hager tried to twist it back on the roadway after running off the paving edge.

Injured were Hager's wife, Elaine, 22, who suffered a broken left arm, fractured ribs and numerous cuts, and his father, Samuel, 52, with severe lacerations of the neck and cuts and bruises of the body and legs.

The Wisconsin ave. accident occurred shortly after 11 p. m. Saturday, police said, when an automobile driven by Raymond Joseph Shoemaker, 17, of 4716 Asbury pl. nw., collided with a northbound streetcar.

Shoemaker was taken to Emergency Hospital suffering a possible fracture of the skull, possible fractured neck, severe scalp lacerations and multiple cuts of the face, hands and arms.

Police say the force of the impact knocked the streetcar, operated by Charles V. Taylor, 35, of 2912 M st. nw., backward into an automobile driven by Jack Person, 32, of 5006 1st st. nw.

William O. Holloway, 12, of Route 1, Fairfax, Va., was injured, not seriously, yesterday in an unusual accident on Rout 211 near Fairfax.

Police say the boy was walking with traffic when he stepped against the side of a passing automobile and was struck by the right-hand ventilator glass.

He was treated at Arlington County General Hospital for cuts and bruises and released.

Charleston, W. Va., Boy Wins National Soap Box Derby

David Icenhower, Washington's 15-year-old hope in the National Soap Box Derby, yesterday won his heat in Round One of the annual elassic but failed of victory in his second try.

Kenny Holmboe, also 15, of Charleston, W. Va., won top honor and a free, four-year scholarship to any American college of his choosing, according to Associated Press reports from the asphalt concourse, in Akron, Ohio.

The Washington lad's first-place time for his winning heat was 27.09 seconds, in comparison to Holmboe's elapsed time in the contest finals of 26.78 seconds. Icenhower, of 3127 G st. se., however, was nosed out of further competition in Round Two of the six-round runoffs by Drew Hearn, of Charlotte, N. C.

A crowd estimated at more than 75,000 spectators lined both sides of the 30-foot wide, downhill track to watch the races. At the finish, Champion Holmboe was greeted by Movie Star Jimmy Stewart and Lieut. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, hero of the first air raid on Tokyo.

A half-soap box behind Holmboe in the gravity-powered, 10-year-old racing contest was Eugene Miller of Akron, Ohio, providing a special thrill for the hometown folks. Third place in the field of 135 contestants went to Richard Rhodes of Ravenna, Ohio.

Washington's soap box derby in which Icenhower won the right to compete in the national event was held July 12, sponsored by The Evening Star and the American Legion, in cooperation with the Chevrolet Co.

Shipyard Workers In Baltimore Vote On Contract Today

Baltimore, Aug. 17 (AP).—Shipbuilding workers of the Maryland Drydock Co. will vote by secret ballot tomorrow on whether to accept a tentative contract and return to work.

Walter H. Oakes, regional director of the Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO), said the balloting would take place at the union's hall here.

If the 4500 shipyard workers who have been on strike at drydock since July 2 vote to ratify the contract, they will return to work Tuesday, Oakes said.

Meanwhile, 8000 employes of the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s three Baltimore shipyards, on strike for 53 days, remained out pending new contract negotiations starting tomorrow.

Fly Threatens Southern Md. Tobacco Crop

Prince Frederick, Md., Aug. 17 (AP).—Another threat to Maryland's southern tobacco crop has been reported by W. B. Vanderfard, assistant agent for Calvert and Anne Arundel Counties.

Vanderfard said the tobacco fly, which made its first appearance in this area's tobacco fields last year, had returned in alarming numbers this season.

The pest is now in the fly stage of its development, Vanderfard said, but already has caused considerable damage in the bug stage.

The county agent declared no established solution to the problem had been reached by the University of Maryland experiment station. Ordinary insecticides could not be used, he said, because the parasite bores into the leaves from their undersides, where conventional-type sprays cannot reach.

Monkey Bites Boy

A 10-year-old Fairfax County boy was bitten on the face yesterday afternoon while playing with his father's pet monkey. The boy, Bernard Power, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stacey Power of Old Dominion dr., Fairfax, Va., was admitted to Georgetown Hospital for observation, but hospital authorities said his injuries were apparently not serious.

Maryland Guard Goes Into Camp

Camp Ritchie, Md., Aug. 17 (AP).—Maryland's Twenty-ninth Division of the National Guard set up camp here tonight for five days of infantry training.

Combat veterans joined with 17-year-old schoolboys in unloading duffle bags, carbines and M-1 rifles from the motor convoys which arrived today and settling down in the two-story barracks which will be their temporary home this week.

The 1189 enlisted men and 189 officers included National Guardsmen from Hagerstown, Cumberland, Elkton, Chestertown, Denton, Salisbury and the Dandy Fifth from Baltimore.

Rev. Oglesby Assumes Superintendent Post

Winchester, Va., Aug. 17 (AP).—The Rev. F. B. Oglesby, former pastor of Fort Hill Methodist Church at Lynchburg, today began his new duties as superintendent of the 30-odd churches in the Winchester district of the Virginia Methodist Conference.

Oglesby was appointed by Bishop W. W. Peele of Richmond to fill the vacancy created by the death of the Rev. W. Evans Thomas.

CIO Maps Fight On Byrd Machine

Virginia Union Leaders Also Seek Action Against Racial Discrimination

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 17 (AP).—CIO leaders in Virginia returned to their homes today after a one-day policy conference here yesterday, charged with the responsibility of organizing a campaign to defeat "the Byrd machine" at the polls in the November general election.

In a session closed to the press, the union men also drew up a program calling for united labor and Negro votes to eliminate racial discrimination.

The Rev. Charles C. Webber, president of the State CIO, urged defeat of all candidates whose record shows them to be anti-labor; enactment of an anti-poll tax law and a Federal anti-lynching law; a permanent Fair Employment Practices Commission; lower prices, Federal housing, health and education legislation, and no Federal tax on incomes less than $3000 a year.

Moss A. Plunkett of Roanoke, former candidate for Governor in Virginia, stressed the importance of political unity of all workers—regardless of race importance or nationality—and declared:

"The Byrd machine is trying to get the Negro vote by giving appointive State jobs to certain Negro leaders, but Byrd will find that he cannot buy Negro or labor votes."

Another speaker, Henry Lee Moon, a representative of the National CIO-PAC, said "only through a political coalition can candidates be elected . . . responsive to the needs of wage earners," otherwise, he warned, "we will be misrepresented by men who vote for punitive legislation which will reduce workers to economic slavery."

Driver Reports Drinking Pal Tapped Truck Cache for $700

An Alexandria dump truck driver learned yesterday that alcohol is no preservative of secrets—and he said the lesson cost him $700.

William Hatton, 29, of 1426 Duke st., Alexandria, complained to Alexandria police that his savings, cached in a steel box in the cab of his truck, disappeared after he revealed it to a drinking companion. Police located a suspect, nursing a bashed head, but found none of the 70 missing $10 bills.

The truck driver told police he withdrew his bank balance about a week ago because of "domestic trouble" and hid it in his vehicle.

At 2:30 a. m. yesterday, he said, he was with the suspect, a 26-year-old Arlington man, at a service station at Cameron and Henry sts., Alexandria. He said he turned to find his companion rooting in the steel box.

In the ensuing fight within the cab, Hatton said, he picked up the handiest weapon, an ax, and hit the man on the head. The man fled on foot, and Hatton drove to the police station, where police broadcast a special lookout and hospital check.

A short time later, the wanted man showed up at Alexandria Hospital, where two stitches were required to close his head cut. But he disappeared before police could question him, police said.

They took him in custody later, near the hospital.

He said he knew nothing of the disappearance of the money. Police released him without charge after intensive questioning.

Broken Headlight Leads to Arrest In Hit-Run Death

Winchester, Va., Aug. 17 (AP).—The story-book sleuthing of a State trooper, who worked on one slim clew, came to light today with the arrest of Elwood Fletcher, 27-year-old Frederick County farmhand, who is being held in jail here on a hit-and-run charge.

Fletcher is accused of striking and killing Earl C. Foreman, 51, on a highway 15 miles west of here July 5.

State Trooper C. A. Seale said his investigation led him to a dozen communities between Washington and Moorefield, W. Va., in his search for a damaged car after he found a piece of a headlight lens at the point where Foreman was struck by an automobile and killed.

Seale found the car in an apple orchard near Kernstown in Frederick County. The officer said Fletcher had signed a statement admitting striking the man and leaving without rendering aid.

Man Dies of Injuries After Truck Accident

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 17 (AP).—Alex Huddleston, 19, of Farmville, died in a Lynchburg general hospital today of injuries received when he was pinned under a truck on a dirt highway in Pamplin Lake last night.

State Trooper R. W. Smith said that Huddleston was a passenger in an Army-type flat-bed truck which overturned after demolishing a wagon and hay mower parked a short distance off the road. The truck was driven, Trooper Smith said, by Marshall Price, 19, of Pamplin, who suffered stomach and leg hurts but was discharged from the hospital this morning.

Food Dealers to Meet

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 17.—Retail food dealers in Virginia today were invited to attend a four-day Statewide convention of the Virginia Independent Food Dealers Association in Norfolk, September 7-10. A food show and equipment exhibition will be opened as a sideshow attraction.

2 Southern Md. Show Trophies Won by Plummers' Her Time

Don't Take It Out on Piano; It Suffers From Humidity

The Washington Post

IT'S THE HUMIDITY—Anson D. Overdorff, piano technician, is a busy man these days. Humidity keeps Washington pianos out of tune, as their sounding boards expand and contract, affecting the strings

Humans aren't the only ones who get out of tune during hot, humid spells.

As a matter of fact the recent scale of weather in the Greater Washington area is giving piano tuners more business than they can handle, according to Anson D. Overdorff, 214 Buffalo ave., Takoma Park, Md.

"Humidity," says Overdorff, "makes the sounding board contract and expand. This, in turn, affects the strings, attached to the sounding board."

Combined with perspiring performers, it all adds up to a very sour note.

"People coming from the Midwest can't understand why their pianos stayed in tune at home, but require adjustments here," Overdorff said.

"They have the same trouble in any city in the coastal area."

A keen ear is the top qualification for a piano tuner, according to Overdorff. Mechanical adaptability and patience are also important.

Some become piano tuners through study at tuning and repair schools. Others learn in piano factories or by apprenticeship under veteran tuners. And in damp weather like this, most of the piano notes they hear are off key.

So—if your piano rears back and groans discordantly when you sit down to play, it may be the humidity—not your ability.

Mother Accuses Man Of Hitting 2-Year-Old

Baltimore, ug. 17 (AP).—A 2-year-old boy and a man accused of hitting him over the head with his feeding bottle lay in the same hospital today after the man was shot last night by police who tried to arrest him.

Authorities at Maryland General Hospital reported Ollie Mac Clifton, 2, and Hobert Taylor, 24, were both in satisfactory condition.

Taylor was admitted to the hospital last night with a bullet wound in the shoulder. Doctors said the bullet entered at a downward angle and lodged in the man's abdomen.

Police gave this account of the shooting:

Patrolman Isadore F. Glass went to Taylor's home at 8 p. m. to serve a warrant charging Taylor with hitting the Clifton child with a baby's milk bottle. The warrant was issued on the complaint of the boy's mother, Mrs. Virginia Lois Clifton, 19.

Glass called police headquarters for help when he saw a man climb onto the roof of the Taylor dwelling from a third-floor window. As three squad cars converged on the scene, Taylor made his way down a fire escape, dashed through his back yard and tried to hurdle a fence, brandishing a pair of scissors, police said.

On the other side of the fence was Glass, who shot him.

Park Road Opening Urged

Luray, Va., Aug. 17.—Page County's Board of Supervisors has joined the Madison County Supervisors in asking for the opening of the Red Gate and Rapidan roads in Shenandoah National Park.

The roads were recently described as "not safe for public travel" by Superintendent Edward D. Freeland of the National Park, but the supervisors contend in a resolution that the roads, which are closed by gates, are in good repair.

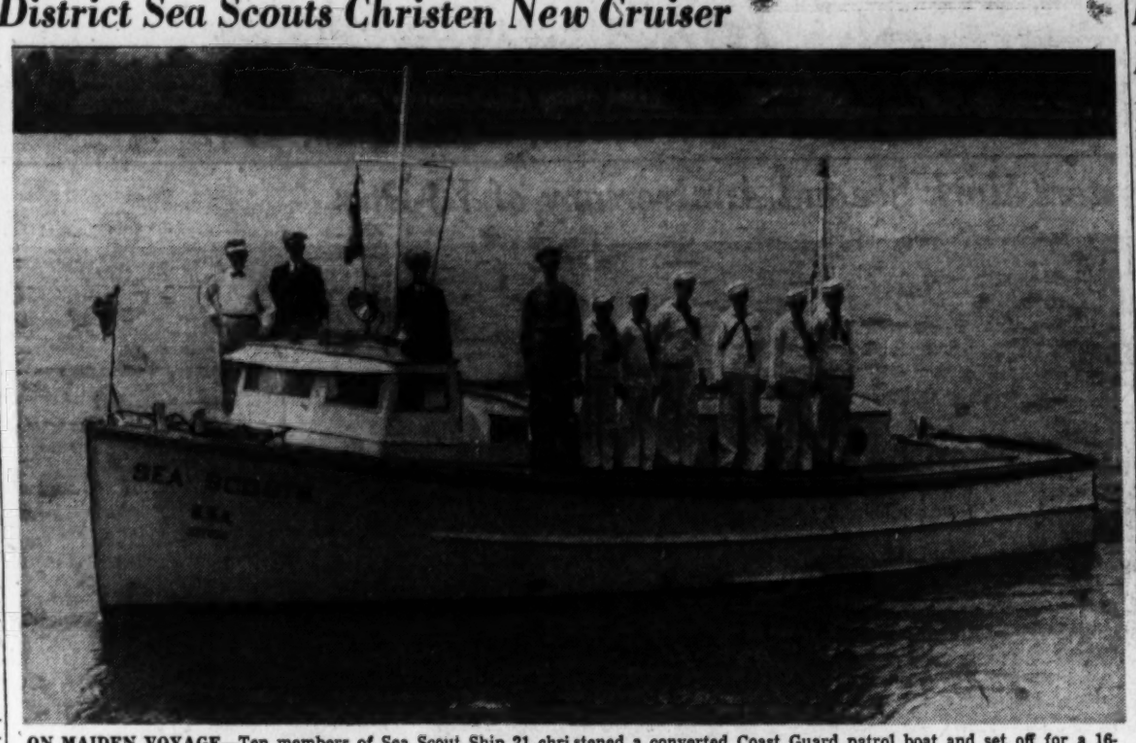
District Sea Scouts Christen New Cruiser



ON MAIDEN VOYAGE—Ten members of Sea Scout Ship 21 christened a converted Coast Guard patrol boat and set off for a 16-day trip to Atlantic City, N. J., from the Coast Guard wharf at 550 Maine ave. sw., yesterday. The ship, renamed the Lightning, is under the command of Skipper Edward Schaefer, 1700 N. Ule st., Arlington

Sea Scout Ship 21 Christens Vessel Before 16-Day Cruise

Ten members of Sea Scout Ship 21 saw their converted 38-foot Coast Guard patrol boat christened yesterday afternoon and lost no time in shoving off on a 16-day cruise to Atlantic City, N. J.

The ceremony, which took place at the old Coast Guard wharf at 550 Maine ave. sw., the Sea Scouts' dock and headquarters, included the traditional bottle of champagne.

The champagne was broken over the bow of the "Lightning" by Mrs. Margaret Schaefer, wife of Edward Schaefer, skipper of Ship 21 and of the current cruise.

Schaefer, whose home is at 1700 Uhle st. N., Arlington, Va. and who is employed by Woodward & Lothrop, has as junior officer on the cruise the Rev. Harry V. Porter, 817 C st. nw., pastor of the Westminster Memorial Church and a Sea Scout committeeman, who also participated in the christening.

The eight crew members, headed by Robert Avery, 124 36th st. ne., second mate, Thomas Payne, 459 E st. sw. and Francis Royce, 2416 Chain Bridge rd. nw., crew leaders, had attended the Rev. Porter's services in the morning in uniform.

Skipper Schaefer, Officer Porter and the youthful sailors plan to make Atlantic City in five days, visit there two days and at Wildwood, N. J., for another day, then make the run back, with a three-day stop and "shore leave" at Colonial Beach, Va.

Among the group at the christening were a number of parents of crew members and Walter E. Blount, Sea Scout committeeman, and Mrs. Blount.

Mrs. Schaefer has been helping the young salts and her husband to renovate the recently-acquired boat, which saw service from 1939 and through the war. Schaefer was a volunteer Coast Guardsman on patrol duty in Baltimore during the war.

Prince Eugen of Sweden Dies; King's Brother, Noted Painter

Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Prince Eugen, youngest brother of King Gustav V and one of Sweden's foremost painters, died today at the age of 82.

Prince Eugen

The Prince suffered a heart attack on August 2, one day after his eighty-second birthday, and was forced to return from a seaside resort to receive medical attention in Stockholm.

Though commisioned in the Swedish army, Prince Eugen turned to art at the age of 20, and 62 years later he had pictured his homeland on canvas in a lyric manner that placed him high in the hearts of all Sweden.

He was the outstanding Swedish landscapist and his works had been exhibited throughout Europe.

Born in 1865 at Drottingholm Castle, near Stockholm, Prince Eugen was the fourth son of King Oscar II. After preliminary studies in Sweden, he traveled extensively in Europe, the Middle East and the Orient.

In Paris, he studied in the Place Pigalle Academy of the celebrated French artist Puvis de Chavannes. In Sweden he studied under Hugo Salmson and Wilhelm von Gegerfeldt.

Every year Prince Eugen stayed at Tyreso manor on the Stockholm Archipelago, which became the subject of one of his first great oil paintings, "The Spring," finished in 1891.

The smooth lines of Djurgarden parks near his castle became the models for two of his best-known works, "The Old Castle" and "The Calm Waters," finished in 1893 and 1905, respectively.

He became a prime honorary member of the Swedish Academy of Art in 1899 and published two art booklets, "Swedish Landscape" and "Paintings, Water-Colour and Drawings."

Waterford Folks to Exhibit Crafts of 18th Century

A glimpse into eighteenth century village life will be afforded visitors to Waterford, Va., next month when residents hold their fourth annual exhibit of arts and crafts.

Hand-woven cloth, blankets and rugs, furniture and other handicraft as well as exhibits of articles dating back to the founding of the town by Quakers in 1732 will be on view in the Old Mill, center of Waterford's program of home industries.

During the three-day festival, September 5 to 7, old buildings and homes including the pre-Revolutionary War Quaker meeting house will be open for inspection.

Visitors also will be afforded views of men and women in eighteenth century costumes actually at work at spinning wheels and wood work tables.

Products of the crafts program conducted in the town during the past year will be on sale. Hooked and braided rugs, cloth and furniture, all types of needlecraft and canned foods will be sold.

Proceeds of the dollar admission to the exhibits and 10 per cent on all goods sold will be used by the Waterford Foundation, a nonprofit organization of townsfolk, toward restoring the town to its eighteenth century appearance and turning it into a flourishing center for home industry.

Dr. Schultz, Former Faculty Member at G. W. U., Dies at 54

Dr. Charles A. Schultz of 7002 Arlington rd., Bethesda, Md., former clinical professor of pediatrics at George Washington University Medical School, died yesterday at Doctors Hospital following a brief illness. He was 54.

A Native of Salisbury, Md., Dr. Schultz was an alumnus of the Washington University Medical School of St. Louis, Mo., and George Washington University here.

He was a senior staff member of Children's Hospital and Suburban Hospital at Bethesda and had practiced medicine here since 1929.

Dr. Schultz was a veteran of World War I and saw service overseas. He was a member of the District Medical Society.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Helen Schultz, he also leaves two stepchildren, Ann and Jane Swanger, and a sister, Mrs. Virginia Kerr of Salisbury.

M. H. Barroll, Retired Army Colonel, Dies

Col. Morris Keene Barroll, 82, USA (ret.) of Tilden Gardens Apartments, 3900 Connecticut ave. nw., died at Walter Reed General Hospital yesterday afternoon.

Colonel Barroll became ill at his apartment at about noon, after complaining of the warm weather. He was taken to Walter Reed where he was pronounced dead at 4 p. m.

A graduate of the Military Academy at West Point, class of 1889, Colonel Barroll saw service in the Philippine Islands during the Spanish-American War and served there through the Philippine Insurrection.

In the First World War he was in command of the South Atlantic Coast Artillery District at Charleston, S. C., and later was in charge of the coast defenses in Boston harbor.

He was born in Chestertown, Md., on the Eastern Shore. Following his retirement in 1921, he spent the remainder of his life in Washington and nearby Kensington, Md.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Anne Miller Barroll; a daughter, Mrs. Eleanora B. Christmas of Balboa, Canal Zone; two sons, Lawrence S. Barroll, in charge of the General Motors Export Corp. at Stockholm, Sweden, and Col. Morris K. Barroll, jr., of Springfield Armory, Springfield, Mass.; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at Fort Myer Chapel at a date to be announced. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

E. D. Talty, Real Estate Dealer, Dies

Edward D. Talty, 65, retired Washington real estate dealer and sportsman, died Saturday at his home, 1614 Webster st. nw.

Mr. Talty, an amateur sulky driver, followed horse trotting races as a spectator for many years and in addition served as a judge in local horse and poultry shows.

A native Washingtonian, he was graduated from St. John's College and had dealt in real estate from graduation until his retirement several years ago.

Your Questions On Homemaking

About a year ago, my pine floors were sanded and a penetrating stain applied by a man accustomed to refinishing floors but unfamiliar with this particular type of stain. We have had trouble with the floors ever since. First, everything spilled and every bit of dirt seemed to sink in. The man removed these spots with steel wool, then applied wax. However, we still have the same trouble and the floors never look nice for long. They have to be scrubbed at least once a week and should be waxed twice a week. My husband suffers from hay fever and is allergic to house dust so we don't use rugs. I'm afraid we will have to refinish the floors all over again. Have you any suggestions? E. H. M.

Pine floors present a definite finishing problem, as you well know from experience, and the softer the pine the harder the problem. Ordinarily the penetrating seal or finish you mention does a satisfactory job. However, it must be applied exactly according to directions and the floor should be waxed almost immediately after refinishing. Are you using paste, liquid, or self-polishing wax? The paste or liquid is much more satisfactory than self-polishing wax for a floor like this. Perhaps, because of your particular problems, varnish would be a more satisfactory finish for your floors. It may be practical to apply the varnish over the penetrating seal. Try it out in the corner of a room. Wipe a small area clean of wax and dirt with turpentine, sand down any rough spots, then apply varnish and see how it looks and holds up. There are varnishes that dry with a dull finish that give a more attractive effect than shiny varnish on floors.

Where can I obtain directions for the care of unusual fabrics—such as raw silk and rayon mesh—at home? I would like to have a pamphlet on laundering and pressing of all kinds. R. S.

A pamphlet entitled "Methods and Equipment for Home Laundering," issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, gives excellent directions for laundering various articles and materials. This booklet (Farmer's Bulletin No. 1497) can be purchased for 5 cents by writing the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. It does not specifically deal with the new materials you mention, but it has a section devoted to silks and synthetics in general.

PETUNIA!

I merely sat down
In the bleachers . . . and

It wasn't my gum
But I'm stuck with it now

There ought to be a law, Petunia! But you can remove gum from your hands or clothes by rubbing with the white of an egg, letting it stand awhile, then washing it off.

Little Child May Say 'No' But Only Just for Fun

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

There comes an age in all children when they delight in frustrating the parent by saying "no" to her requests. They have discovered their ability to upset her is colossal and they are excited by their own powers.

When a child says "no," experimentally, and the mother becomes infuriated and yells at him that he can't say "no" to her, he is inspired to say it again. Here, with little effort, he can upset the mother's apple cart. He can stand still when she says "move," refuse to eat when she says "eat" and keep his eyes open when she would have them close. This is exciting play for a 2-year-old.

Much of the time a child's "no" is merely a bid for attention. If he carried out all orders there would be no thrills. But let him say, "No, I won't," and the fireworks start.

Imitating Mother

Sometimes, his conduct is merely an imitation of his mother's. "No, don't do that," is a constant refrain as he moves about the house and so when he is given some command, he turns his back on it with a firm, "No!"

When his mother says, "Here, take another bite of cereal," or "Come in the house, now," he closes his mouth or runs in the opposite direction yelling, "No, No." Too much attention should not be paid to such noes. His mother may go right on spooning in the cereal or stop and start another food, or she may run after him laughing and bring him in the house. She may be very gay and playful. When he says, "No no," she says, "Yes yes," and they keep this up until they are both laughing at their own nonsense and the child has forgotten what it is he doesn't want to do.

But, there are noes which are meaningful. The child who goes into a temper tantrum when told how to act and who is persistently negativistic, suffers from too much domination.

He Must Decide

No child can grow up to be an independent, self-reliant individual who has to walk a chalk line of behavior drawn by the parent. Even if this is good behavior the child has to develop initiative, has to make his own decisions some of the time or a figurative brick is put on his head inhibiting development of his personality.

Negativism is to be expected of the 2-year-old, it is out of place at 4 years and should be a warning to the parent that she should loosen the reins of her authority. Negativism is a weapon the child is using because he finds it the only way in which he can do as he pleases some of the time.

Syrian Envoy Is Host at First Party

The Syrian Minister and Mme. El Khouri entertained at their first party yesterday, since arriving in Washington early in July.

The occasion was to celebrate the election five years ago of the President of Syria, Chucri Kouatly, and as the fete was hurriedly organized, invitations for the most part went out by telephone.

Mme. El Khouri made her debut to official society in a long white gown, brought from Damascus, the intricate gold embroidery on the bodice appliqued by hand.

Among those who stopped in at the legation on Wyoming ave. yesterday afternoon were the Turkish Ambassador, Huseyin Ragip Baydur; the Indian Ambassador, Asaf Ali; the Ethiopian Minister, Ras Imru; Aniz Azer, Egyptian Minister, and T. E. Bromley, first secretary of the British Embassy.

Col. William A. Eddy, special assistant to the Secretary of State, and Mrs. Eddy, were there, and still others were Mr. and Mrs. Loy Henderson, the Adrian Colquitts, Azzam Pasha, Secretary General of the Arab League and Mme. Azzam; Mr. and Mrs. James Terry Duce, Mr. and Mrs. Roman Horn—he's executive secretary of the International Monetary Fund; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Satterthwaite, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Winkler, Mr. and Mrs. George McNeil and Maj. Wilson Buie, jr., adviser to the Syrian Legation, and Mrs. Buie.

And Afif Tannous and Mme. Tannous; members of the Syrian Legation staff, which includes Husni Sawwaf, counselor; George Tomeh, attache, who was introducing his bride, sister of the former Syrian minister, and Sirri al-Kaltakji, attache.

20,000 at Boy Scout Jamboree in France See 'American Day' Pageant of Pioneer

Jamboree City, Moisson, France, Aug. 17 (AP).—"It was one of the most wonderful things I've ever seen," crippled British Boy Scout Bob Fletcher, 14, said from his wheel chair after "American Day" at the International Jamboree Stadium here.

Twenty thousand Scouts of all nations—more than for any other event so far—turned out yesterday for the big American show.

Scout Frank Guardepee of Glacier Park, Mont., a chief of the Blackfeet tribe, conferred the headdress of honorary adoption into the tribe on Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador to France and Scout leaders from Britain, Holland, Denmark, New Zealand, Switzerland, Hungary, Lebanon and France.

The show began with examples of mass Indian dancing.

This was followed by a group representing the white settlers, in four covered wagons led by a dozen horsemen.

The third wagon was driven by Brown Finch, 16, Thomasville, N. C., aided by Shep Russell, 17, Petersburg, Va.

The band of pioneers then showed some square dances.

There were tableaux showing France sending over the Statue of Liberty to "Uncle Sam"—Herb State, 17, Fairmont, Minn.—and England sending over the Scout movement and Scout founder Lord Baden-Powell, portrayed by "Uncle Otto" Horn of Detroit.

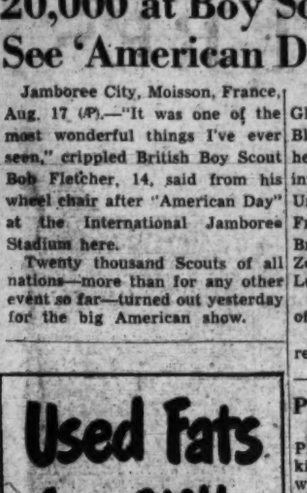
Used Fats Are Still Badly Needed!

Says the Food Editor of McCall's, HELEN McCULLY



So many women write to our magazine and ask if they should keep turning in their used cooking fats. Most certainly yes! There is still a shortage—not only in the United States but all over the world. Here is what Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson says: "It is still necessary to conserve every pound of used fat, since the over-all fat supply situation is little better now than it was last year." That's why we American women must keep on saving used fats until the world-wide shortage is over!

The Washington Post Poll

D. C. Area Democratic Trend Gains as Independents Shift

Washington area residents, like voters throughout the country, show an increasing trend back to the Democratic Party.

A survey by The Washington Post Poll shows that 41 per cent of area residents favor the Democrats, as compared with 38 per cent in March, 1947, and 27 per cent in July, 1946.

Approval of the way President Truman is handling his job is higher in Washington than it has been in more than a year. Fifty-two per cent think he is doing a good job as President; 40 per cent think he has been doing a fair job; only 6 per cent say he has been doing a poor job; the remainder have no opinion.

In June, 1947, the Gallup Poll found 63 per cent of the major party vote for the Democrats in cities over 500,000 population. In the Washington area, The Washington Post Poll finds that 63 per cent of the people who favor either of the two main parties are lined up with the Democrats.

Findings of The Washington Post Poll are based on personal interviews with a representative cross-section of people living in the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia.

Local residents were asked:

"If a presidential election were being held tomorrow, what political party would you favor?"

Replies were:

Party Favored	June 1947	March 1947	July 1946
Democratic	41%	38%	27%
Republican	24	31	26
Independent	24	22	34
Other	1
Undecided	10	9	13

The Democrats' gain, locally and nationally, appears to result from a shift of Independents toward the Democrats, since about the same proportion favors the Republicans this year as last summer.

Local residents were also asked:

"Generally speaking, do you think President Truman has been doing a good, fair, or poor job as President?"

Here are their answers:

Opinion of the Job President Truman has done	June 1947	July 1946	April 1946
Has been doing a good job	52%	33%	45%
Has been doing a fair job	40	43	33
Has been doing a poor job	3	16	8
No opinion	5	8	14

By virtue of a certain deed of trust duly recorded, in Liber No. 5250, Folio 353 et seq., of the land records of the District of Columbia, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned trustees will sell, at public auction in front of the premises, on MONDAY, THE EIGHTEENTH DAY OF AUGUST, A. D. 1947, AT THREE O'CLOCK P. M., the following-described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia, and designated as and being part of original Lot 6 in Square 940, beginning for the same on the east line of Fifth Street at the southwest corner of said Lot 6, north along the line of said street, 32.36 feet to the south line of the land conveyed to Joseph A. Herbert, Jr., and Loren M. Herbert by deed recorded June 26, 1946, in Liber No. 17766; easterly along said south line to the east line of said lot; south along said east line to the south line thereof; west along said south line 109.06 feet to the beginning. Taxed as Lot 827 in Square 940.

TERMS: Sold subject to a prior building association deed of trust for approximately $4,738.21, further particulars of which will be announced at time of sale; the purchase price above said trust to be paid in cash. A deposit of $500 required. Conveyancing, recording, revenue stamps, etc., at purchaser's cost. Terms to be complied with within thirty days, otherwise deposit forfeited and the property may be advertised and resold at the discretion of the trustees.

HERMAN MILLER,
FRANK PARSONS,
Trustees.

Group Riding Rules Explained By Hack Inspector

On Saturday we noted P. D.'s lament about cab drivers who charge full fare to paying passengers who are squeezed in with the hacker's nonpaying friends and family.

From the Hack Inspector's office comes word that passengers are entitled to group rates under those circumstances, I'm told:

"The P. U. C. regulations state very plainly that if anybody other than the driver occupies the vehicle with you, that constitutes group riding."

To make doubly sure of the facts I asked:

"What about the night shift drivers, who often have their wives or girl friends on the front seat with them?"

"We're constantly trying to break that up," was the answer. "But, nevertheless, the law is specific. If there's anybody other than the driver in the cab with you, you're not obligated to pay more than the group rate."

PIKE'S PEAK BUSTED

The following postcard has been received from Walter Haight, who at current meat prices should be worth a fortune.

"Dear Bill: We're vacationing in the Great Open Spaces. Yesterday we went up to the top of Pike's Peak. It used to be 14,120 feet high, but I think I mashed it down a little. Please don't mention me in your column—except in 10 pt. black. Regards, Walter."

Just for that, Walter, you'll get 5 pt. lightface. But hurry home anyhow—we miss you.

PLANE TALK

One of the reporters assigned to cover Hughes thought that a press conference wasn't producing any news, so he stuck in a question of his own.

"Mr. Hughes," he asked, "now that you're building a huge plane like the Hercules do you think the Nation should start enlarging its landing fields to accommodate it?"

The California millionaire directed his most withering look at the reporter and replied icily:

"As far as I know, the Hercules is still a flying boat and the various oceans are quite large enough to accommodate it."

LOST AND FOUND

S. D. Lawshe, of Glen Echo Hts., Md., says:

"If the owner of the trolley pass-case lost in our chicken house cares to call for it, he can have it.

"As for the five missing fryers, we'd like to be paid for them. With feed at $5.40 a sack, we didn't raise those chickens for fun."

BATS IN THE BELFRY

Charlotte Moeller, of 1301 15th st. nw., reports that her enjoyment of a local movie was ruined the other night when a bat began to fly back and forth across the screen.

Having been similarly annoyed myself at times, I hunted up the theater manager. He's as annoyed as any of us. He said:

"The doggone things get in through doors, through skylights, through anything that isn't bolted shut. They seem to be attracted to the light, and once they're in they're very hard to get out.

"Sometimes we go after them with brooms or other improvised weapons, or try to trap them—but it's almost hopeless.

"Most theater managers use a different technique. After the last show they open one exit door, turn out all the house lights, and then focus a spotlight on the door. That usually works."

PROBLEM

"Nemmy" seems to think I'm the poor man's Mr. Anthony. He submits this problem:

"My girl friend Barbara says she sleeps under heavy blankets all through Washington's atrocious summers. What'll I do after we're married?"

Several solutions present themselves. For one thing, you might get a job as a traveling salesman during the summers, and stay home only when it's cold.

For another, you might design a pair of pajamas packed with dry ice. Or you might condition yourself by learning to sleep comfortably in a Turkish bath. Or buy twin beds.

But if I were you, Nemmy, I'd forget Barbara's telephone number.

Grin and Bear It

"I did go on a buyers' strike—in the meantime prices went up another 10 per cent!"

Leonard Lyons

Fadiman's Too Busy to Take 5 G's

New York—FEE: Archibald Lee Wiggins, the banker, publisher and Undersecretary of the Treasury, recently wrote an article for Collier's about the Government's finances. Wiggins was surprised when Collier's sent him a $500 check for the article. He confided that he hadn't expected payment and could not possibly accept it because he had written it as a Government employe on Government time. Wiggins wrote to Collier's explaining this situation and added that he had mused about the many ways in which he might have used this money. He decided that the best way was to send the money to the United States Treasury—which he did—where the $500 would pay the interest on the national debt for exactly three seconds.

CURE: Johnny Green, the composer, tells of two Britishers meeting at their club and discussing a third member, Hawkins. "Have you heard about poor Hawkins?" said the first. "He got into the habit of playing with his ears. It drove him mad" . . . "What happened then?" asked the second member . . . "His family finally decided to send poor Hawkins off to the Congo," said the first. "There he continued to play with his ears, and it drove him so mad that he completely lost his memory" . . . "Poor Hawkins," sighed the second . . . "Oh, he's all right," said the first. "When he lost his memory he forgot about playing with his ears. So now he's back in London, cured."

PUZZLE: Last Christmas Howard Hughes saw the large number of Christmas presents which his friends had given Johnny Meyer. "Howard cannot understand," said Meyer, "why his friends should give presents to me—instead of to him—because I entertained them all at his expense."

MONEY: Clifton Fadiman went to the offices of an advertising agency in behalf of the magazine, '47. The magazine will start accepting advertisements shortly. . . During Fadiman's discussion regarding funds for '47, the advertising man told him: "I have a radio show for you. It would pay $5000 a week" . . . Sorry, I can't take it," replied Fadiman. "I'm too busy editing '47 at $1 per month."

TRIUMPH: When Randolph Churchill visited Moscow he went to the National Hotel. Henry Shapiro, the United Press correspondent, came to Churchill's room prepared to guide him around the city. Churchill said he wanted to talk to the French Ambassador. "I'll call my office and get his phone number," Shapiro suggested . . . "Oh, no," Churchill insisted. "I'll ask the operator to get him for me." Shapiro, a 12-year veteran of the Moscow beat, said that this wasn't the way things are done in Russia. Churchill disagreed and said: "I'll show you how to talk to these people. He lifted the phone and told the operator in English: "Get me the French Ambassador" . . . The operator muttered a reply in Russian. "Look here, I say," said Churchill, "no use talking to me in that foreign language" . . . Then he waited. The operator found someone who understood English. And in a few minutes Churchill had the French Ambassador on the phone.

CHATTER: Mary Martin's daughter will play the role of her younger sister in the road tour of "Annie Get Your Gun" . . . When Bea Lillie sailed to England last week the lock of her trunk broke and Miss Lillie started to repair it. "Are you sure you can do it?" Miss Lillie was asked. She said: "If it isn't a watch or the Mount Wilson Observatory, I can fix it."

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

THE COMMANDANT AND HIS TWO FELLOW COUNTRYMEN LEFT VERY SUDDENLY UPON HEARING THAT ONE OF OUR VEHICLES HAD BEEN STOLEN. DO THEY RETURN?
NO. THE COMMANDANT LEFT THE TASK OF RETURNING ORDER TO THESE OIL FIELDS TO US. HE SEEMED TO BE QUITE ANXIOUS TO ATTEND TO THE CAR THIEF HIMSELF.
THERE'S ONLY ONE FAT EUROPEAN, IN THESE PARTS, CAPABLE OF STEALING A JEEP RIGHT OUT OF A PARKED CONVOY — OUR OLD CHUM, THE FAT MAN.
CHECK! HE MUST HAVE DOUBLED BACK AND LOST HIS EX-FOLLOWERS — STUMBLED ON YOUR CONVOY AND GOT HIMSELF MOTORIZED.
CURSE THE LUCK! CURSE RYAN! CURSE THOSE CONFOUNDED PILOT FRIENDS OF HIS! THEIR BLIND LUCK HAS SMASHED ALL MY PLANS, BUT I'LL NOT CAP THEIR VICTORY BY ALLOWING THEM TO TAKE ME. IF THE DRAWN CURTAINS AND WAILING SIREN ON THIS BLASTED SCOOTER CAN GET ME PAST THE POLICE ROAD BLOCKS, I'LL LIVE TO LAUGH AT THEM YET.

Your 4th Birthday

Kristina dear, your little friends . . . Are calling at your door . . . Because you are so nice and you . . . Have reached the age of four . . . It is your birthday and we hope . . . That when the day is done . . . You will agree that it has been . . . Your most delightful one . . . We love you more than we can say . . . Because you are so sweet . . . And with your every hug and kiss . . . You make our lives complete . . . We wish you all the happiness . . . A lovely girl could find . . . And may each year be better than . . . The one you leave behind . . . May you accomplish everything . . . You ever want to do . . . God bless you, dear Kristina, and . . . May all your dreams come true.

Our State Society of Michigan is the oldest State Society in Washington; it was organized in 1862 to give assistance to Michigan soldiers fighting for the Nation during the Civil War. The Society has flourished through the years, solidly supported by Wolverines, who have come to Washington where they can best help their country through work in the national government. We are all proud to be associated with the greatness of Michigan . . . State of industrial might . . . unchallenged for its supremacy in the automobile industry . . . which in its comparatively short life has had a phenomenal rise to one of the biggest enterprises in the world . . . spurred by Michigan men of vision and enterprising genius. Michigan's development of mass production techniques has created widespread enjoyment of the fruits of our economy. Although Michigan is thought of almost synonymously with automobiles, we have the amazing total of nearly 6,000 different manufacturing industries, all contributing to America's comfort and economic progress. Our State's second largest business is . . . pleasure . . . entertaining tourists . . . who flock to Michigan each year from all over America. We welcome our friends from Washington to Michigan and hope that this year we may count you among our visitors . . . to fish for trout, bass or pike . . . enjoy an invigorating swim in the clear, cool lake waters . . . and in the winter participate in skiing, ice boating or . . . fishing through holes chopped in the ice! We are grateful to The Hecht Company for this opportunity to tell of Michigan . . . and are justly proud to have played such a large part in the revolution brought about in the American standard of living through industrial achievements—and are hard at work to make the next fifty years as productive of universal benefit as the past have been.
